Dear Madam,

This is a great pleasure that at the end of my post-graduation program this is the time to submit the Internship Report on ‘Contemporary Challenges of Employee Recruitment and Selection Process in Service Providing Business Sectors’ that you have assigned me as important requirement of HRM perspective. I found the opportunity to be quite interesting, didactic and effective. I tried my level best to depict a real ground scenario and observations in the recruitment process of a service oriented industry.

The report contains a deep and wide scenario on the difficulties of recruitment process of field forces working in the ground level in a service providing company. The strategies, policy and method of recruitment and the convergence of this process with the prevailing socio economic factors has been identified and analysed in depth. Here I have gathered information through practical work in the field and conducting number of interviews. It was really a effective method of learning and acquiring practical knowledge which is not available in the curriculum.

I am grateful to you for your cordial support and patience to guide me to connect my academic knowledge with practical field of experiences. Your guidelines will enable me to go forward with a vision of developing my thinking process in a constructive and creative way.

With best Regards

Mohoshena Akter
Letter of Endorsement by the faculty
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS:

First of all I would like to be submissive and extremely grateful to almighty Allah (SWT) for his blessings on me for enabling me to complete my post-graduation degree with a sound mind and health. Secondly, I would like to be grateful to my parents who inspired me the most to pursue my academic certification process.

Thirdly, I am proud and happy to perform my post -graduation process in a institution like Brac University and the honourable recognized faculty members. They have enabled me to think professionally and logically with a view to analyse and identify the depth and width of a particular fact in an organizational perspective. Besides I would like to thank to all my classmates who were really very cooperative in the process of doing group assignments or any other academic requirements.

Finally, I would like to express my utmost thank to Aegis Services Ltd. (A sister Concern of Square Group) and the GM, Operations and AGM-Head of HR & Admin who provided me an opportunity to work in a real ground professional field which is a platform to connect me my academic knowledge with professional life.

It would have become really very difficult for me to manage such a big challenge alone by myself without the combined effort of the above mentioned peoples and institutions.
EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

Aegis Services Ltd is one of the most recognized quality services providing company of a Square Group. It has a very strong base of business in Bangladesh. Though Aegis was grown with the intention of backward integration of Square group but in the process of time Aegis has grab the opportunity of service market opportunity and expanded its operation outside the Square Group. If we consider the business opportunity with BCG Matrix we can say that before few years in 2013 it has become a ‘Star’ group from ‘?’ mark with huge business opportunity. Now it has the tremendous growing business opportunity and yet to be a cash cow firm for Square Group if Aegis can establish the art and science of manpower planning and managing. The craftsmanship of HR is the part of core operation here in the service providing company like Aegis. Thereby Aegis is providing a great opportunity to learn and match the basic and functional nitty-gritties of human resource management and development. Therefore getting an opportunity to work here in the core HR-operation has enabled me to relate how the HR mechanisms contribute and improve the value chain of an organization and increase the profit margin. This craftsmanship of managing and developing human resources starting from planning to termination through recruitment & selection, orientation, on-boarding, training and development, career planning with the advancement of compensation and benefit package the full employee life cycle is being practiced here.

Within the many functions of core HR operations I have selected the difficulties of recruitment process of Aegis to analyse and evaluate. The difficulties faced to recruit people have both the positive and negative influences as well. The factors are both internal and external. The internal analysis will represent the pros and cons of prevailing recruitment systems and the scopes for change and development of the process. On the contrary there is no scope to change the external influential factors which are macro level problems applicable for all other organizations as well. Through this analysis I will try to discuss some control mechanisms to adjust or extract the best value out of an adverse external environment to run the HR operations smoothly. These are the basic scenarios of my internship program which will be discussed in the subsequent sections. I believe that there can be much better options for improving the process but I have put a little effort to represent the best of my knowledge and capabilities which is congruent at this stage of my age and experience.

Part -02: Project part

1. Introduction

Aegis Services Ltd. being a service oriented business unit thereby it requires a huge amount of recruitment on every month. The recruitments are planned and executed on weekly basis and plan is done for 1 month. The recruitment chain and process is developed by Aegis was done in 2005. Later on it was never reviewed or updated. The ratio of recruitment of male and Female of various departments have been mentioned below

a. Rationale: (Why are you interested to undertake this report? What is the importance of this report)
   1) To relate academic knowledge with the actual professional scenario.
   2) To reflect my points of considerations, observations
   3) To get an idea regarding the present scenario of job market, recruitment process and recruitment difficulties.
   4) To identify small problems by commonly ignored in recruitment
   5) To improve the problematic scenarios with professional intelligence and directives

b. Background

In the process of pursuing MBA internship is a platform to link the students with the professional or actual work life environment. In order to get the flavour and taste of doing a particular job internship program is a good platform. In the internship program various types of tasks are assigned by the supervisors. While performing a job or any particular assignment, there are number of external and internal factors which influence the work process. These internal factors can be overcome in a systematic way. But it is very difficult to manage or adjust with the external factors. As I was assigned to deal with the recruitment process and preliminary screening of candidates therefore I got a scope to monitor the factor with keen interest. There are number of external and internal factors identified on these perspectives. These internal and external influential factors are going to be highlighted and discussed in the perspective of recruitment in Aegis

c. Objectives: (What are your objectives/purposes you intend to attain or achieve in this report?)

The objectives of this report are as follows:
1) to identify the external and internal problems faced by in intern while selecting and recruiting candidates for a field level jobs.
2) To analyse the problems in depth with reasons and influential factors
3) To bring some recommendations or solutions to manage those problems with academic knowledge and experience opinion.

2. Review of Related Literature: Books, Reports, Journals
   b. Strategic Human Resource Management-Cengage Publications by Monica Belcourt

3. Activities Undertaken:
   a. Work related:

      1) Process for hiring, recruit female field forces as required and complete the preliminary selection process for secondary interview
      2) Look after and communicate with all field forces female staffs for their welfare.
      3) Visit the operational areas and identify the problems of the female staffs
      4) Maintain the turnover report of recruitment and termination
      5) Communicate with potential candidates for job and invitation for interview
      6) Conduct exit interview
      7) Any other task assigned by the management
   b. Organization wide:
      1) Maintain good relationship with all other departments.
      2) Keep keen eye on their activities and their functions to coordinate and cooperate.
      3) Follow the norms, rules, regulations, customs and etiquettes of office.
   c. Other Relevant Activities:
      1) Support while investigating any accident or incident
      2) Support in managing conflict and dispute resolution

4. Constraints/Challenges and Proposed Course of Action for Improvement:
   a. Identified/observed in the organization:
Recruitment process of Aegis is found to be different from traditional method of hiring executives or managers like publishing advertisement in newspaper, posturing or floating announcement in job media Centre like Bdjobs.com. The overall recruitment process and selection criterion has been mentioned in Appendix-A and Appendix-B respectively. Every month Aegis needs the following average amount of forces in various departments:

Almost 200-250 males and 20-35 females required to recruit against turnover and new job opening. These huge amounts of candidates are not even hires by any agency. Though some agencies expressed their interest to provide candidates but Aegis didn’t show any interest because it may bring another chain of disaster. Initially they used to circulate/published advertisement through national newspapers like 'The Daily Prothom Alo/The Daily Jugantor and some local popular newspapers. But in the process of time the feedback of publishing vacancy announcement/Walk in interview started failing or less responsive. The reason may be due to technological advancement young generations are more Facebook/technology biased rather than spending time on reading newspapers. However after considering number of courses of actions the following method has been identified and nominated to implement and still is effective for hunting their desired candidates.

However, Aegis recruits their field forces from the very remote regions of all 07 divisions of Bangladesh. There are 06 recruiting inspectors who are retired military professional (JCO/Sergeants) and expert in managing recruitment process internally selected and they are appointed for recruitment only. They visit particular Thana’s of a district which program is monthly made by the head of HR & Admin and circulated to all. According to that program they visit that area and stay there for 04-05 days in a week. They first take the permission from local police station and the local administration (UNO/Chairman of Union Council). After getting the necessary permission they select a venue for recruitment like school of open field with one/two rooms. While performing the assigned task of recruitment and selection there are number of challenges and constraints identified. The sources of challenges can be segregated in two aspects as external and internal challenges. External challenges are due to the macro environmental factors like the socio economic and education system prevailing in Bangladesh. Internal Challenges are due to our company and the stakeholders working process. The details of the factors are described below:

Challenges due to Internal Factors:

- Type of Job and social Status: First of all during the initial stages of 1999-2005 the candidates used to come of better quality with dedication. But after emergence of many new entrants in the market this type of jobs are readily available and generally they don’t prefer to perform this type of security job with uniform. Many of the candidates consider it as good job that provides them status to their society.

- Shifting Duty Pattern and Limited scope of Leave: This is a basically shifting duty job round the clock including weekends and national holidays. Sometimes the load of duty and OT increases too much when SSC, HSC examination is going on and the season of threshold. Company faces equal amount of pressure of manpower and on the contrary demand increases from operations. Demand of leave increases and providing leave also becomes very difficult. During Eid and Durga Puja we are unable to provide 100% leave by virtue of our service pattern but we try to sanction at least 40% of the staffs leave during Eid/Puja. Thus now candidates don’t prefer to join these types of industries.

- Reporting Location for Interview: The recruitment process is found to be not very well organized. The recruitment is done in Ashulia Gouripur in the training centre of Aegis. The location is not on side of a main road, it is located much inside from main road which is very difficult to identify as there is no road no or house/plot no for being out of City Corporation. Though it is an area where numbers of factories are located but even though maximum of our candidates are fresh from village and they face much difficulties to reach there alone with their heavy bag and baggage. Therefore a good number of candidates fail to reach over there.

- Only one day of a week recruitment is done: Generally female candidates are trending to report on scattered basis. They mainly come in reference to one of her friend/cousin/sister/ brother/ neighbor. They board on their home initially and with their reference they are able to collect information of Aegis through local employees working over there. But single day reporting reduces the administrative hassel but it also allows missing a greater number of potential candidate.
• Sudden demand: It has been observed that a sudden demand of employee is placed which is only 2-3 days or even instant notice period, which is very difficult to manage or hire. Because maximum time these group of people come from rural areas especially from North Bengal zone. They take at least 01-4 weeks of time to report to office after managing transportation cost, at least 01 months food and accommodation cost. Managing this money consumes a good amount of time to report after calling them for interview

• Experiences in other similar industry are not preferred to select: Aegis wants a fresh blood to grow them with Square Groups customs and cultures. When a candidate is already grown in the market with experience is the similar field with other companies it becomes difficult for them to adjust or convert themselves into a new dimension of behavioural aspects. That filters another group of candidates while hiring.

• Strict following of recruitment criterion: Aegis has a very strict and structured recruitment and selection criterion. Generally they don’t compromise with this minimum benchmark of selection like height, weight, age, education, health and background checking. This steadiness makes the recruitment process much filtered to hire expected amount of candidates but this process ensures quality services to the stakeholders.

• Recruitment criterion for selecting people: some of the selection criterion seems to me very challenging to hire better candidate and retain them for a longer period of time like at least 03 years. These are due to selection of teen age group like 18/19. These 18-22 age groups are found to be not very responsible and capriciousness is identified during training period and performing job. Childish attitude, sense of having no responsibility to their job and managing difficulties in various critical situations are found to be very adverse which makes the performance questionable. But this age group is the most attracted for this job and holding the 70 % of total force.

• Compensation & Benefit Package: The compensation and benefit package is well structured and fixed. The detail compensation and benefit package has been mentioned in Appendix-C of this document. It is reviewed every year. The packages are very competitive but long term benefits are really exception than any other companies in Bangladesh. To ensure the long term and fringe benefits monthly take home salary is comparatively sounds low than its competitors. Though the concepts and explanations will break the wrong idea but initial impression goes down. Generally Aegis offers salary for 8 hours basis and the competitors’ offers salary for 12/10 hours basis which sound obviously much higher than Aegis offers for 08 hours.

• Cost of Recruitment: The mentioned recruitment and selection process costs about Tk-1045/- per head on an average based on the total monthly recruitment cost versus the total number of candidates join in the training. This amount is of course a very high amount which other way increases the cost of services. Another parallel method is being practised here that is if any active employee invites/instigates a candidate he/she will get Tk-500/- for referring him to join. This method is obviously cost effective and a direct incentive to refer more people but the response is comparatively very low.

- Training & development Procedure: The training pattern and curriculum has been designed for 4 weeks and the maximum effort has been given on physical activities which are almost like a Para-military forces. This extensive physical labour oriented training is difficult to accept and adjust by many candidates. Those who cannot cope up with this process quit at the early stage of his joining.

Challenges Due to External Factors:

- Socio-Economic Factors: In our social perspective unemployment is a great factor. It’s because not only that the scope of employment is low but also our confined mentality, unnecessary ego and maintaining social status are the equivalent reasons to remain unemployed. Recently maximum of the candidates are found that they come to join listening that it is a Square Group but when they come to know that it is a uniform job.

- Academic Inflation: Now many of the citizens are found with graduation, pursuing Honour’s and Master’s degree coming for these types of job where is worthy of for the people who are class-VIII /JSC qualified to HSC. But there are lots of candidates coming up with master degrees for this type of job. Initially it was hired but the observation regarding them is found to be very pessimistic. They remain very hopeless, frustrated, their academic qualification restricts them to provide better services. Later on Aegis decided to filter them while recruiting but even though there are some candidates who hide their actual information to get a job. But this effort doesn’t remain confidential rather it reveals or discovered by their behaviour and attitude. This factor also creates candidate crisis for hiring people.

- Educational Weakness: Besides academic inflation there is another form of problem related with overall education system. The candidates are coming up for preliminary interview their basic academic knowledge expected from them doesn’t match. Candidates are very much equipped with JSC/SSC/HSC certificates but they fails to prove that they are worthy of it. They cannot answer the questions of their own result and year of passing exam even. Sometimes they lost with the question of their school/college name or even their date of birth. These types of candidates are affluent and we sometimes forced to hire them due to manpower crisis but in return expectation and performance from them is obviously very poor in reality.
• False information & Fake documentation: There are lots of candidates found and detected coming up with false and fake documents like birth certificate, NID card, academic certificates also. Sometimes they are found to be hiding or concealing their actual academic information like age, Honour’s or Master’s degree in fear of being rejected.

• Lacks in Sense of Responsibility: Maximum time they are from very poor background people. But their general behaviour in performing job is observed as very callous and not responsible. Maximum time they are found to be apathetic or capricious in performing or reporting in duties. These problems are much chronic in the female workers community.

• Family pressure and Support: There are many teenagers who come to join with Aegis only to stay away from family due to emotional bargaining issues. Both female and male candidates are found like this similar type of case joining for a very short period of time. Whenever the problem is solved or the emotions faded away seeing the reality of life they immediately get apart with or without notice. This behaviour is chronic within the teenage group whose age is between 18-22 years old.

• Unemployment Crisis: Right at this moment there are about 26 lac citizen are unemployed. Unemployment makes a person idle, lacks of confidence and loosens the dignity of life. A longer period of unemployment compels a large group of young people to join by any means and through which they are ensured with at least one month’s accommodation with balanced diet food. Immediately after completion of the training they try to flies away or deserted from the post or from the road. It is very difficult to identify and detect this group from earlier.

• Numbers of competitors are growing: A lot of similar service oriented industries started growing from 2005-2006. As a result lot of similar employment opportunity has been created. But their compensation structure, training and recruitment procedure is quite different. Due to their short duration training like 1-2 weeks and 12 hour’s duty system allows them to get more number of candidates. Maximum of their business strategy is low cost minimum service provider to survive in the market. But these groups of business are consuming a good amount of unskilled forces.

• Competitors Compensation Packages: Competitors are providing services and preparing their forces according to various categories of performance and physical fitness. Aegis offered Tk- 6,800/- in 2017 whereas competitors are offering almost similar amount of money but for 12 hours is likely to be Tk-9,000/- and that sounds much heavier. And then decide to join in other companies.
b. Academic preparation:

This type of recruitment procedure had not been included in our academic session or discussed in the programmes. This is a very unique/un-usual process of hiring people. Therefore there is no scope of matching it with the regular academic content or theories.

3. Lessons Learned From The Internship Program:

Implications to organizations/company-Based Affiliation:

It was a great and impressively relevant opportunity for me to work with such an organization where their core operation is highly integrated on HR and all the activities are both implied and explicit. While undergoing the academic sessions many of the aspects and processes of HR were theory basis and there were many issues which was clear to me. But after working with Aegis the vagueness started getting clear to more clear. At the end of the total process of learning and on ground practicing the issues are now transparent clear to me. Not only the academic factors but there are many factors also through which I came across while working seems to me very new and quite relevant. Those customized issues opened my eyes to think critically and analytically to run a business organization. I came to connect and relate the all other relevant operations and supporting functions which are also very important to run an organization. The importance of financial aspects, limitations of budget and its rational allocation and limitation of resources and managing all the functional activities within this restricts are also equally important. There were lot of special accidents, incidents, conflict and dispute scenarios which I have seen to manage those were not the part of academic curriculum.

Finally in reality study or academic knowledge didn’t provide me an overview regarding how to manage and satisfy the internal and external stakeholders in managing critical and circumstantial scenarios. Whatever has mentions in the books and theories are of considering an ideal situation or in a fixed scenario. But in reality that ideal situation never exists. All the process and function have numerous factors which are continuously changing with the internal and external factors basing on which the decisions and work process changes. This was a great platform for me to learn all those issues from this internship program.

4. CONCLUSION:

Managing and observing HR operations by directly being involved in a service oriented company like Aegis where dealing with manpower is the main business is a great opportunity to learn being a student of business post-graduation program like MBA. In the initial part the company profile and their business functions, systems policies and procedures have been discussed. Specially being a service oriented company a huge recruitment function they need to handle which is a great mechanism to run the business like providing in-bound logistics. However the process and policies related to other competitors are seems to me much better and well organized in Aegis and all the systems and policies are almost same and well-set with the other senior SBUs of Square group like Square Pharmaceuticals Ltd. and Square Toiletries. In spite of that Aegis is holding a great value and image within the very strong SBUs which has tremendous growth potentials.

As my internship topic was on the recruitment process and the challenges of recruiting now a day I tried to relate the actual problems faced by Aegis. First of all, I tried to highlight the overview of the recruitment process and selection criterion of Aegis. Then I tried to identify the difficulties and challenges faced while recruiting and selecting candidates in recent days. The challenges and problems have been differentiated under two circumstances which are external and internal factors. Internal factors were somehow occurred due to the organizations strategy, tactics, policy and procedures which are possible to change and overcome by changing the system. But problems which are the outcomes of macro environmental factors are considered as external factors which are not very easy to overcome all on a sudden. But obviously there are some control mechanism can be integrated through which the risks or problems can be filtered or minimized. Finally some solutions against the problems has been recommended but these may not be very perfect solution for converting all the problems being solved.

5. RECOMMENDATIONS:

The recommendations I want to mention is the outcome of my observation and analysis on gap between the academic learning and the practical implication or work process are as follows:

1. As maximum of the MBA students comes from multi-diversified academic backgrounds. Therefore there can be a platform/channel for all the students to bring them into a same line of thinking.
2. The duration of each semester is recommended to increase. Because 04 month (Practically 03 months) is not adequate enough to cover all the important parts of the syllabus.
3. Besides academic theory study, case study and group tasks, presentation there can be number of small actual projects on managing and solving various types of problems can be given which needs on ground involvements and come up with a solution. Like to give an overview of a recruitment process a small task on CV sorting and categorization project can be given to a particular group. They will visit that company help them to do the work on ground for 01 day long visit and perform the job. There will be a company representative who will evaluate the process and project work on ground and give them a score.

4. The overall MBA program doesn’t have any industry visit. In order to relate the academic knowledge there can be number of industry/organization visit on weekends and it should be made compulsory for all students. Because someone working in a food manufacturing industry may not have very good idea on textile or iron/steel industry. Again someone working in bank may not have a very clear picture on service or merchandising/trading industry.

5. Whatever we are learning we need a scope to relate our academic knowledge to all types of industries like (Manufacturing, merchandizing and service oriented industries).

6. Many of us work in a small organizations or giant organizations. But we don’t know the process of other similar organizations striving for survival. Don’t know how a new business is on the way to grow from loss to profit. It would be better for us to get a platform where people are indulging their all efforts to make an organization loss to profitable.

7. We are studying HR in a general perspective applicable for managing types of organization. But in reality these managing HR varies from industry to industry and organization to organization. It is recommended to provide an opportunity to the students that hoe the HR functions varies from organization to organization and industry to industry.
