Introduction

Newspaper is a part and parcel of our daily life. We cannot think of a day without it. It brings all news and views of different matters in the world. Newspaper talks about science, sports, political matters, entertainment, technologies, religion, opinions, business and more or less everything that happens on earth.

People from all walks of life and of different ages love to read the newspaper. Now-a-days people are more conscious about reading newspapers. Newspaper is an important part of media. As subscribers, we simply read the newspaper, but we do not really give any thought to the ways in which news is procured and processed by the newspaper agencies and how it gets published on a daily basis, so easily and smoothly.

Basically, it is not necessary to publish all collective news reports daily in a newspaper. It has to maintain its space limit as well as pick the most important news for publication. Later free spaces are covered with other relevant news and advertisements.

There are different types of working positions in a newspaper office. There are reporters, editors, translators, feature writers, customizers etc. Different positions have different activities, rules and duties. I worked there as a staff correspondent. My job was to translate news reports following the specified model of writing news reports and press releases.

This report illustrates ideas of strategic methods. Basically it is a report on the ways in which news are translated. The work is done, based on specific forms and patterns of news report. The report highlights how news in the form of raw data turns into a publishable news report after applying some strategic methods of editing and translating.
Chapter-2

Birth and Evolution of the New Age

New Age is one of the most prominent and esteemed Bangladeshi English newspapers. Also, it is one of the country's most bold and outspoken newspapers, regarded for its anti-establishment editorial policy. The present editor of the New Age newspaper is Nurul Kabir. This is a Dhaka-based English language daily newspaper.

Enayetullah Khan is the first founding editor of New Age. He was a multi-faced personality person. He was a commentator, writer, editor, orator and institution builder. He was awarded Ekushey-Padak in 2004 for his excellence in journalism. He was also the editor of Bangladesh times between 1975 and 1977. Later Enayetullah Khan died on November 10, 2005, at the age of 66. After his death in 2005, Nurul Kabir took his position as an editor of New Age. Enayetullah Khan first established New Age as its editor and publisher in the month of June, 2003. Today, New Age is successful for its ever-expanding readership since it first hit the newsstands in June 2003.

This daily English newspaper has both electronic and print versions of publication. This newspaper established its capability to provide factual news, present political matters and give a satisfactory reflection of the economic and cultural interests of national and international levels. This newspaper has fulfilled its job under all political and apolitical circumstances. The daily, New Age covers the worldview of various ideological positions. It considers different journalistic ethos and focuses on democratic responsibilities in society.
New Age has different sections for readers. There is a variety of news and other elements of interest that are covered by the newspaper. There is an exclusive section on Bangladesh, in addition to sections on international matters. Economy, advertisement, business, entertainment, cartoon, sports, etc. are featured regularly. New Age maintains high standard by following its original format and using broadsheet paper for publications.
Chapter-3

My Internship Experience

The term ‘Internship’ refers the position of a trainee who works in an organization to gain experience for being qualified. As a student of Brac University doing internship to an organization means a lot to me. I got an opportunity to work at New Age as an intern for learning and experiencing works. I was always curious for doing internship to any organization in the field of media where I can learn a lot. I was in search of getting an opportunity to utilize my acquired theoretical and practical skills to real life situations and contribute in a winning organization where creativity, sincerity, skill and performance are the criteria for one’s recognition.

Today’s technology and media made our life so easier. Now, we are seeing the world through media in just a matter of second without going anywhere physically. Even if we talk about newspaper, everything is right there for everyone to get updated news everyday sitting inside the house. Working in a newspaper office was interesting for me. My curiosity helped me to be more sincere and it gave the patience to work in a right manner. I used to ask different questions to experienced staff members to learn new things. Also, I was always interested to be familiar with new different vocabularies or terms and ideas that mostly used in newspaper writing. All the staff members were so supportive and well-mannered. They were always ready for answering any kind of questions. Even, helpful during office-time and beyond.

My supervisor was Mr. Farid Ahmed who is the deputy editor of New Age. He was so co-operative and sometimes consulted with me about new different topic related to global happening incidents, politics and about newspaper. All the people over there inspired me a lot to do my work with enthusiasm. I have got all proper directions for how to do my work in which way.

Environment for working over there was perfect enough like a professional working environment. I couldn’t have to face noisy or even dull environment. As a woman, I preferred a desk based working duty which will be hassle-free and secured. No harassments disturbed me over there.

In New Age office working members work sincerely. All the staff members were enthusiast for their activities which made me more inspiring. Also, there were no specific time binding or limitations to finish my work. I got flexible working hours over there.

Staff members like to stay being united as a whole team of New Age family. All of them are co-operative always for one another and enjoy being together with love and respect. I really feel myself lucky enough being a part of them in my short course of internship period.
Chapter-4

Academic Study Related to my Work

English and humanities media courses helped a lot to do my internship work effectively. Especially, the major courses of media and culture such as editing, English for the print media, copywriting, translation studies, globalization, cultural studies and other literature and linguistic courses helped a lot in my internship work as an experience.

Now I am discussing about some of those major courses that really helped me practically to complete my internship works.

First of all, from the course ‘Editing’, we have learned the definition of an editor, duties of an editor. Editing in newspaper simply refers to prepare the written material for publication by condensing, correcting or modifying it. As a sub-editor and internee my duties were more or less similar to this kind of activities in translating news reports and press releases.

Newspaper editors’ review and modify the content provided by writers and other contributors. They verify facts and try to understand the context and ensure the readability. They check spelling, grammatical and punctuation errors as well. Similarly I had to check errors, verify, modify and understand the context for the readers.

Then, the course from ‘English for the print media’, we have learned how to write letter to the editorial, how to write fair event, how to write obituary, op-ed, feature and personal essay and also writing other reports. Learnings that help in my work from this course is; use of appropriate lines like news readable lines, formal writing in news reports that can be suitable for the newspaper.
From the course copywriting, we have learn about copywriting and duties of a copywriter, line formats, advertisements, time duration, limitations, space limitation and so on. So, learning that helped in my work from this course is space limitation. In many cases, newspaper has to keep spaces for publishing different advertisements. Therefore, there sometimes we get shorts spaces for news report. In that case, it is important to apply strategies to make the news report shorter in any case. It can be short by eliminating unnecessary details from the information or using adjoin words by cropping big sentence or by eliminating less important details etc. So obviously an editor has to be also concerned about space limitation.

Finally the course that helped me the most is the ‘Translation studies’. As most of all my duties were based on translating. So whatever I have learned from this course all my learnings helped a lot in my work. For example, we learned propositional meaning, expressive meaning, collocation meaning, sense for sense translation, word for word translation, textual equivalence, grammatical equivalence, functional theories of translation, invisibility of translation, politics of translation, translation shift approach etc. So all these learnings helped a lot in my everyday activities in New Age. So it is not possible for me to specify one theory of translation studies that I have applied in my work, as I had to go through all the learnings almost every day to complete my work.

Basically all my lessons from these courses helped a lot as an experience too to complete my internship in New Age. Also, made my work easier and gave me enough comfort in translating news reports and press releases. By applying my experiences from my learnings I tried to make my writing qualitative.
Chapter-5

Formulae of Writing News Reports and Press Releases

There are different formulae that are used in writing news reports and press releases. News reports have to have one short introduction like a thesis which includes overall main detail in one sentence. Then, if it is a crime report, the next paragraph will talk about the recognition of the victim and the convict. Then the necessary details and also the details of lesser important if needed.

Then, the pyramid structure, the 5Ws and the 1H questions are strictly maintained in the process. This is important to keep in mind while writing a report. This strategy also helps an editor to ensure that every information are there in details or not, by answering those questions. Next, heading of a newspaper is very important. Because, when a reader reads a newspaper first thing that a reader first see is the heading. That is why it is also necessary to give or select a suitable heading for a news report or press release. Normally a reader likes to know the main story of the news at first. Moreover, no one likes to read a lengthy news report and also it can make a reader bored. In this case, it is necessary to understand readers mind as well. Most of the people love to read the specified and appropriate main part of the story. So mainly a staff correspondent tries to make a news report readable with an appropriate and felicitous form of writing and also by adding those strategies of writing that can satisfy a reader at the time of reading a news report or a press release. An editor’s duty is to make the news report accurate, content and make it flexibly readable for the readers.
Chapter-6

Translating and Style of Writing News Reports

A sub-editor’s duties were based on translating and editing different news reports or press releases. As an internee, I worked there in the position of a sub-editor. When we translate, we check vocabularies and synonyms for writing. Also beginning of every news report or press release the first word that is used, has to be in capital letter. Mainly an editor changes it before the news report or press release published in the newspaper. In a news report or a press release we normally apply three or two paragraphs or even sometimes needs more than three paragraphs for giving relevant details to publish in the newspaper.

Also, a translator needs to be careful about the grammatical errors while translating the text properly. Focusing on selecting necessity part of the news story is another important part. Because if we go for include all the information of the raw data; it can be uninteresting, lengthy and a boring news report. So selecting necessity part of the information from the raw data is essential. Just the main necessity meaningful information makes a news coherent and qualitative. If the news story is bigger, then a translator can summarize it in a proper way by including essential part of it and make it readable to the readers. Moreover, applying strategies of using different words or adjoining words or commas in a sentence is necessary to make it look shorter and better. Translator adds such strategies to give perfections in writing to look those lines like the news readable lines of a newspaper. Maintaining this criteria is always preferable in writing and translating.

Later on, completing the activity of translating the text, a translator checks the full data again for the revision or correction if needed. Then if he or she sees any unnecessary or any incomprehensible part of information which made the data lengthier; translator will cut it or modify it shortly in a way it would be acceptable and suitable. Also, another important part of translation for publishing news in a newspaper is, rightly mentioning the name of the day of a week, for the readers to understand. For example; suppose today is Friday and a translator gets a raw data in the form of today’s news. But in translating, he or she has to mention that the incident happened on Friday night or Friday except using the word ‘today’, as it is the news of today but it is going to publish the next day in the newspaper. So in New Age office these things are thoroughly notices that a news translator is following these criteria or not.
