Chapter 2
Introduction of Report
2.1 Rationale of the study

- Understanding the needs of women banking
- What features are being offered to the women
- How does it help better than regular offering
- To measure attitudes of women towards banking sector

2.2 Scope of the analysis

This report is the mandatory part of 3 month long internship project of BRAC Business School. As an Intern I have joined account maintenance team under account services at BRAC Bank Limited from 1 October 2018. Since then I was working with the team and giving solutions to accounts related problem.

2.3 Limitation

- Since banking information is highly confidential that’s why I had my restriction to access every part of the maintenance team.
- Every employee is extremely busy there which is why it took long time to extract a single piece of information from them.
- I tried to finish my job responsibility day to day basis without a single error and because of that I had very few time to collect information for myself.

2.4 Objectives

- To know about TARA banking and its functions.
- To find out the incentive that will be given to the women
- To know the eligibility and criteria to acquire this
- To find out scope of improvement
- To find out the women interest about it
Chapter 3
Methodology
Information Sources

In order to complete this report I had to rely on both primary and secondary information.

3.1 Primary information

- Direct interaction with active office employees
- My working experience
- Paper works of direct customer with a request of Scheme Code Change
- Archive

3.2 Secondary data

3.2.1 Official website

The official page of BRAC Bank Limited has the complete details of TARA banking. From that I just picked only my area of study.

3.2.2 Online article

Other than official website, I also read about it on online article which talks about the women banking and its benefits. I have given the article link to the referencing part.
Chapter 4
Literature review
Review

It actually hard to find any related literature that supports the content of TARA women's banking. This service is running for almost 2 years and there is not enough information’s or articles yet but somehow I gather few online news article and journals related to the women banking. Based on those articles I tried to find the similarities between my topic and articles.

According to (Chavan, November 22, 2008) the substantial growth in women-members of self-help groups has not meant any major change in the access of women to banking. This brief note shows that women at large remain significantly deprived of banking services.

By any criterion – number of accounts, amount of loans, credit in agriculture, banking across socio-economic groups, and rural and urban areas – women remain far more disadvantaged than men. In recent times, there has, in fact, been a worsening of access to banking services for women from rural areas and those from economically backward regions and social groups. The increase in spread of bank deposits has taken place primarily for urban women.
