Abstract

Under the Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA) educational modules, the internship program is mandatory for BRAC University students in order to orient them with the corporate world. As a BBA student, I have had the opportunity to do my internship in BIFFL’s Public Relations Unit, and this report reflects my learning in that organization.

Bangladesh Infrastructure Finance Fund Limited is a government-owned Non-Banking Financial Institution operating since 2011. It was built up to address the importance of putting resources into the substructures and PPP agreements of the nation. Later, an organization recall allows for the inclusion of private accomplices. (BIFFL, 2019).

BIFFL plans to attract private ventures from nearby and outside financial specialists and to put resources into organizations carrying out framework ventures based in Bangladesh. BIFFL is also committed to environmental protection (BIFFL, 2019). When BIFFL considers any investment deal, green economy and environment friendly projects are their top most priority.

To build a beneficial relationship between the public and the media, Public Relations is a strategic communication process used by individuals, businesses and organizations. A public relations specialist develops a specialist communication plan and uses media or other direct and indirect media to create and maintain the company's positive image and a strong relationship with the target audience. BIFFL has set up a PR unit to raise awareness of the company and build a good relationship with investors, government officials, employees, vendors, other financial firms and all other stakeholders.

1. Introduction:

Internship program is a bridge to enter into the corporate life from the University life for a student. In my internship period I have got the privilege to work in a corporate working environment which was a different learning experience from my course study.

During my internship, I have got the chance to work in the department of PR of Bangladesh Infrastructure Finance Fund Limited (BIFFL) to know about how public relation work has been done. All of these experiences help me to know how to work and adjust in a corporate environment. In this manner this internship gave me the chance to expand my insight and recognize my qualities as well as to make me understand my weaknesses; this will help me to shape my career in a better way near future.

To fulfil the requirement of the Bachelor of Business Administration Program (BBA) from BRAC University I was assigned to complete my internship and I have chosen BIFFL, which is a government processed non-banking financial organization for three months of my internship.

The main target of this internship is to create a wide understanding of the relationship between the workplace, the performance of the activities and the work environment. In other way, through this internship I have been practically involved with all the theories I have been acquired from my studies. In my academic as well as personal development, this will help me to pave a way for growth.

3. Research

3.1 Introduction to the Report/Study-

3.1.1 Rationale of the study-
Public Relations (PR) are about to build relationships to advance, promoted and benefit the department's and institution's reputation. It forwards the massage not only to the internal stakeholders but also to the allies, advocates, community and the institutions. The PR department helps market the recruitment process to the department and can lead to improved student applicants' quality. Because PR shows funding agencies that the company is progressing and actually making a difference for the stakeholders. The Public Relations Department's other important functions include organizing different events, to promote special services, events, Public affairs, internal relations, community relations, ultimately high-tech public relations such as blogging, social networking. Hence, it is crucial for the human resource department point of view to find the diversified, potential, talented and enthusiastic employees for the PR department.

Albite, all these decisive functions are required to be performed by the PR department to lift up the image of BIFFL, the company does not have a proper department and enough employees to perform the task. Moreover, most of the PR activities remain unnoticed and disregarded by the BIFFL. The purposes of this report are to explain why BIFFL pay more attention to the PR department, how HR can bring talented employees through a proper recruitment process.

3.1.2 Statement of the problems
Public Relations are an amazing field to work in, but there are some tough challenges to face. Public Relations Department of BIFFL faces a great challenge of having quality employees. Specific knowledge and skills are been required for PR related work but in this organization has less opportunity to recruit effective employees and train them accordingly. The PR department of BIFFL is disregarded by the management and for this reason, there is a major problem is to have a. Lack of employees and versatile talent are the main barriers in publicizing institute’s major accomplishments and harnessing potential benefits. Another main problem for the PR department of BIFFL is lack of budget. As PR is still a small and newly developed department of BIFFL and the organization has fewer product lines that is why the budget for this department is not much as required for having a strong PR department.

3.1.3 Scope and limitation of the study

➢ Confidentiality of information
➢ Time Constrain
➢ Lack of data to analyse

Confidentiality of the information: BIFFL strictly follows confidentially of its information which is under the company’s corporate governance law. It clearly states in the law that any information is produced, received or collected through the internal source for the company’s decision makings process should store in its database and should not be reproduced or exposed to the public without company’s concern. This confidential information may be in physical form, for instance on paper, on a hard disk, CD, video tape. In addition, any information collected through the conversation of employees in the meeting or official activities fall under the category and should be preserved accordingly. BIFFL explains the importance of confidentiality by saying that exposing any confidential information may give a massive privilege to the competitors to run ahead of the competition, which may cause serious damage to the company’s business policy.

Non-public information that should also protect from being publish to the public fall under the confidential information policy. BIFFL emphasis that all proprietary information are confidential and must require a written consent from the management to reproduce. Therefore, protected and confidential information in this policy is collectively referred to as "confidential information."

Examples of confidential information include:

➢ Information regarding the business policy, results, accounting forecast, strategies, database of clines and customers, products and employees information.
➢ Information regarding the merger or acquisition transactions of the company or a client, securities positions, pending orders or plans to raise capital (either through Offers or offers that are exempt from registration) or other information that as material for the company or one of your respected clients.

Therefore, it was difficult as an intern to deal portrait actual situation without having enough information.
Time Constraint: Time is always one of the main barriers while conducting research on a company or any project. Jumping to the conclusion without conducting proper research, will fail the chief purpose of the project. So, I decided to collect information in the most effective manner. However, to perform in-depth analysis of the activities of the Human Resource and Public Relations Department need more time. Besides that, I was offered only three months internship which is a very short time to comprehend all the activities to draw a solid picture of any department or any organization.

Lack of data to analyse: Public Relations Department in BIFFL only consists of three employees and no research was done previously to examine the activities performed. In addition to that the Human Resource department also does not hold any specific data to analyse the effectiveness of this department. Hence, the task has become harder to identify the setbacks of Public Relation Department in the organization, even though the organization could benefit massively in many ways putting more focus on its internal and external activities.

3.1.4 Objectives of the report

The objectives of this report are to explain how PR can represent BIFFL, why BIFFL should pay more attention to the PR department and how HR can bring talented employees through the proper recruitment process in that every department and so on. ### 3.2 Literature Review:

The modern view of HRM first gained prominence in 1981 with its introduction to Harvard Business School's prestigious MBA course (Talukder, Hossain, & Hossain, 2014). In its simplest sense, Human Resources refer to manpower engaged in organizational settings to meet institutional goals through its physical and intellectual capacity (Talukder, Hossain, & Hossain, 2014). Moreover, if any organization wants to run smoothly and effectively then the most indispensable factor that organizations need is a human being (Mehta, 2016). In the past, people were treated as a machine when the time of the personnel management system prevailed (Mehta, 2016). But after a conception of HRM emerged, the organizations found it more decentralized and more compatible with the organic system and cross-cultural and hierarchical system. (Mehta, 2016). Given by that Human Resource Management takes the entire organization as a central point for analysis (Mehta, 2016). The actual capital of the organization is the human abilities. Every organization has cash to commence the business but if they have no professional bodies to use them at the right pace and at the right time it will face a great loss with time. HR is a business strategic partner that runs with the business and leads the business to success. Public Relations are a concept which is a very important for promotional tool for business organizations because positive public relations can have a direct and indirect impact on the business activities of the organization. (Vakil, 2012). Public Relations is the process of “building good relations with the firm’s various publics by obtaining favourable publicity, building up a good corporate image, and handling or heading off unfavourable rumours, stories, and events” (Vakil, 2012). Public relations can be seen in their identity discussions. It has been claimed that public relations is not an activity as much as it is a process that is constantly evolving. (Vakil, 2012). Based on this claim, Wilcox et al (2001) argue that most definitions are redundant as they only embrace certain elements of the full public relations role (Vakil, 2012). What most authors fail to realize, Wilcox et al (2001) argue, is that “public relations is a process involving many subtle and far reaching aspectsIt includes research and analysis, policy development, programming, communication and feedback from a wide range of publics” (Vakil, 2012)

3.3 Methodology of the Study:

Methodology means the total procedure of setting up the paper. This report has been set up in an orderly system beginning from the choice of the topic and title for the final presentation. The vital part was to distinguish and gather information, break down and present them in a precise way to locate the essential focuses.

Three steps has been followed for preparing the report-

• Selecting the topic
• Selectin the type of report
• Selecting the data source

Details are given below-

3.3.1 Selecting the topic:

While doing the internship in BIFFL firstly, I had to choose a topic for the internship report which is related to my department and my major courses. I discussed the topic thoroughly with my supervisor to prepare a well-ordered report. To make an effective report an effective topic is very important.

3.3.2 Selecting the type of the report:
There are two types of the report depends on research type, one is qualitative and another type is quantitative.

Quantitative research: A systematic study for numerical data collection and statistical or technical performance are considered as quantitative data. From online surveys, questionnaires, etc. the data of quantitative research has been collected.

Qualitative Research: Qualitative research is a type of research which collects information those are not numerical data and these sorts of data interpreted meaning which helps to understand targeted people and locations.

The type of the report is a qualitative descriptive report that gives away the idea about the recruitment process of the PR department.

3.3.3 Selecting the data source:
To gather relevant information which will find the answer for the research problem is called Data Collection. There are two types of data for research-

- Primary Data
- Secondary Data

Primary Data: Surveys, interviews, or experiments are some first-hand sources to collect information or relevant data. By using these first-hand sources, the data have been collected are considered as Primary data. Primary data has been collected from primary sources.

Secondary Data: The type of data which already has been published in books, newspapers, magazines, journals, online portals, etc are considered as secondary data.

To prepare the report both the types of data is equally important for doing research. Both of these data are equally important for any kind of research work.

3.4 Human Resource of BIFFL:

The human capital of BIFFL and its detail is given below-
At BIFFL, “Human Capital” is considered as a key element in improving the assets, since it is a sustainable competitive advantage and increases the employees’ efficiency to accelerate the achievement of the organization’s goals. BIFFL strongly believes that human capital plays an important role in people’s development, improving the life and income, increasing knowledge, skill, and production capacities, economic growth and reducing poverty which facilitates the achievement of SDG 2030. In this present world, where knowledge and communication with customers have gained increasing importance, human capital, which shows the volume of knowledge, technical skills, creativity, and experience of the organization, gains great importance, thus human resource is considered as productive assets not costly assets. BIFFL attracts, develops and retains employees by ensuring equal opportunity, training and development opportunities, attractive remunerations and fringe benefits etc. That is why BIFFL has become a great place to work where people can excel in their performance with joy and pride.

4. Public Relation:

Individuals, various companies and organizations use public relations to build mutually beneficial relationships with the public and media.

A specialist in public relations drafts a specialized communication plan and uses direct and indirect mediums to create and maintain a sustainable positive image for the company and a strong relationship with the target audiences. In BIFFL, PR unit has been established to increase the awareness about the company and to build a good relationship with the investors, government officials, employees, vendors, other financial firms and all other stakeholders.

Advantages of having a Public Relation Unit in an organization are:

- Cost-effectiveness: Paid promotions like TVCs are very costly rather public relations can work in a very cost effective way to get a large amount of audiences. Public relation works to minimise a large amount of costing as well as it can gather a more attention from targeted people.
- Credibility: Public relation is more credible than any other third party’s advertisements.
- Reach: If a public relation can work in a proper way, it can gather a huge crowd or large audiences through news outlets or other exposing techniques.

4.3 Required KSA for PR Unit:

A person working in a PR department or a PR specialist should be from business background having good communication skills or those who have a bachelor's degree in communication are more preferred. However, proper education is not enough to become a successful PR specialist rather a PR specialist needs to have certain skills, like (IPR, 2012):

4.4 Necessity of PR Unit in BIFFL:

In the initial stage of BIFFL, there was no public relation unit but gradually the importance of the unit has been perceived. The main responsibility of Public Relations is to send the right message to the right people or place for creating and maintaining the organization’s reputation. As PR is the public face of the company, it can make or break the reputation of the organization by using the power properly. BIFFL is a non-banking financial organization which has been established for financing the infrastructure, PPP, eco-friendly projects in Bangladesh. In this organization, PR creates a bridge with information in between the organization and industry spokespersons, stock analysts, investors, trendsetters, industry analysts, investors, employees, and even the electronic and print media. PR is very necessary for the organization and the necessity is given below-

4.4.1 PR increases the organization’s credibility:

PR experts use to have good leadership skills, better networking, and good communication skills through which they can maximise the organization’s reputation.

4.4.2 Increase investments, profits, and leads:

Part of PR is marketing. BIFFL gives their circular for a job in job portals like BD Jobs. Not only this but also they recruit via use newspaper social media etc.

BIFFL’s PR Unit as initially started working. Now for this department 1 or 2 employees are well enough to handle the work but with time the unit will receive lots of creative works and media relations then the employee requirement will go high like more than 3 or 4 people.

4.7 Findings:

Key findings from my internship period, research for the report and experiences I gathered in these three months are given below-

4.7.1 About the Company:

BIFFL is the largest Financial Institution which is a non-banking institution of Bangladesh possessed by Government having approved capital and paid up capital of BDT 100 billion and BDT20.10 billion individually (biffl, 2019).

4.7.2 The HR Unit of the company:

At BIFFL, "Human Capital" is considered a key element to improve the assets, as it is a sustainable competitive advantage and increases the efficiency of employees to accelerate the achievement of the objectives of the organization. BIFFL strongly believes that human capital plays an important role in development, to improve the lifestyle and income, increasing knowledge, skill, and production capacities, economic growth and reducing poverty which facilitates the achievement of SDG 2030. The HR department of the organization plays a vital role for improving strategic management, managing wages, and salaries, training and development, employee satisfaction, etc.

4.7.3 PR Unit of BIFFL:
In BIFFL, PR unit has been established to increase the awareness about the company and to build a good relationship with the investors, government officials, employees, vendors, other financial firms and all other stakeholders. PR Unit of the organization has been creating and maintaining a good relationship with TV channels and newspapers for better networking, sharing the services and news. This unit handles investor’s events, releases financial reports and handles media queries and complaints.
5. Recommendation:

It is certain that the main goal of having a Public Relation Department in any organization is to improve the brand reputation, expose business activities to the new customer as well as existing investors and leveraging social proof. One of the main activities of BIFFFL is to provide loan and work with massive projects to build better infrastructure in Bangladesh. It has been contributing immensely actively and passively to the development of the country since its establishments. Yet only a group of people are aware of its activities. Thus, it is evidently presumable that the Public Relationship Department has been overlooked for many years which leads to its less recognition to the people. However, I believe special attention and strong initiatives can improve BIFFFL’s image substantially in the public eyes and attract more investors.

Human Resource Department needs to play a vital role to climb up the ladder to achieve the overall success of the Public Relation Department. HR has to identify the key individuals who can actually perform the required task. In this regard, Understanding the importance of Public Relation is the key to obtain designated goals. During my internship period, I have recognized some of the major issues, which are discussed below, might solve the existing problem if properly implemented.

- More efficient employees: BIFFFL should hire more employees to run the Public Relation Department efficiently and effectively. This will help the organization to reach out to the public in any given time. Moreover, diverse employees will bring a vast amount of creativity to publicize their current and upcoming activities. The HR department must be very keen on finding out suitable and talented staff to perform the responsibility. They need to search for the talents who are good at, for example, content designing, script writing, event management, photography, and other essential skills.

- Budget allocation: the reason PR department has not been excelled in its entirety because of less budget allocation from the organization. To enhance public awareness, BIFFFL should spend money in the seminar, advertisement, podcast, special events, website and bring the new talent.

- Training and Development: Hiring employees alone cannot solve the problem. The HR department should focus on continuous training to enhance the productivity of existing and new talents. To keep up the pace with digitalization, HR should bring some external trainer to train.

➢ Media and Broadcast relations: Media and Broadcast are the most significant source of reaching out to the stakeholders and the public. BIFFL needs more connection to the media and broadcast to showcase its activities. BIFFL spends a huge portion of its budget in Corporate social responsibilities, woman empowerment, and building infrastructure for the future. However, never got noticed because of less coverage of its media and broadcast.

➢ Process optimization: Because of fewer employees; budget constraints; non-existence of an actual PR department; decision-making hierarchy, tasks that are supposed to be done by the PR department entirely. It takes a long time to accomplish which leads to discontentment among vendors. Therefore, solving these issues would assist BIFFL to reduce overall time to process a task to meet the project target faster. It will also reduce the extra pressure on employees and vendors.
6. Conclusion

From the mentioned subject matter and my point of origin to work in BIFFL, I can say that from the very first day I really enjoyed my BIFFL internship. I am confident that this internship program of three months will definitely help me realize my future career in corporate world.

BIFFL is the largest Government Non-Banking Financial Institution in Bangladesh. I had a great experience to work over BIFFL for completing my internship program as it was a prerequisite of my BBA program. Here in this organization I was able to use my skills and knowledge for benefitting the organization as well as I have learnt about the actual organizational culture, and I have also learnt how a real PR department works, its job descriptions and so many other things.

BIFFL has standard and organized departments and recruitment process. Their HR is very active and efficiently working on recruitment, strategy management, salary and compensation management, training etc. On the other hand, PR is a new unit for the organization but soon it will grow and become a strong part of the organization which will add maximum value to achieve its goal.
