

Residential semester of BRAC University

BRAC University is one of the leading universities in the country, established in 2001. Since then it has been providing students with excellent and unique educational facilities and the best faculty members. Of the many extraordinary attributes the university holds, the residential semester is one of the best.

On the very first day after arriving at TARC, an orientation is arranged for the students and there they are given guidelines and discussed with, about the rules and regulations they must follow.

Residential Semester at BRAC has a strong focus on the academic side and many measures are taken in order to ensure that students accommodate the best study habits while performing better and more productively in class.

Besides studying, students are involved in many other extracurricular activities at TARC. They are required to take up an RS activity such as cooking, sketching, photography, community service, mediation, learning a new language, etc.

Other than these co curricular and academic activities, students do quite a few things for entertainment. Every now and then dramas will be held on current topics and free times are spent watching movies or playing board games. A semester spent at TARC is thus one full of self developing experiences, learning and great memories to cherish lifelong.

Copyright © 2016 Dhaka Tribune, All Rights Reserved. | Developed by Portonics