1. Introduction

As David Ogilvy, the father of publicizing states it, “We sell, or else”. The capacity of advertising – offering an item, hasn't changed as the decades progressed, yet the methodologies surely have. Beginning from the Egyptians cutting open notification in steel to publicize in 2000 BC, to today's tremendously utilized viral and internet promoting; the universe of promoting has experienced a constant and element change.

In various periods, at different times great sponsors utilized their inventive abilities or contemplations to get through the mess where every day a man runs over several brands and its advancements. Today's advertisers are attempting move far from the standard strategies for publicizing that incorporates TV ads, radio plugs, and bulletins. It gets to be hard to make a brand obvious; making individuals devour it and after that stick to it, is a radical new test through and through. This is when advertisers and innovative offices require a pretend.

Promoting organizations realize that they will ceaselessly need to discover and make inventive new ways to deal with react to real industry shifts in progress. Another renowned saying of David Ogilvy is, “If it doesn't sell it isn't creative”. It is one of their essential obligations to make their customers see obviously and comprehend why just TVCs and bulletins can no more pull in and hold buyer fascination nowadays. The thought must be something exceptional that it emerges from other crusade and different brands, particularly contender brands. The following 5 years will hold more change for the promoting business than the past 50 did. Progressively enabled purchasers, more independent promoters and steadily developing advances are rethinking how publicizing is sold, made, expended and followed.

1.1 Objective of Report

1.1.1 General Objective

To study crusade adequacy as far as how customer's needed to convey the recommendation and how we consummated it by inducing an alternate correspondence. How the psyche impact at the forefront of individuals' thoughts and change their purchasing conduct.

1.1.2 Specific Objectives

1.2 Scope & Limitations

1.2.1 Scope

1.2.2 Limitations

One of greatest confinements in directing this exploration was that organizations in this nation are still vigorously reliant on the nonexclusive mediums of publicizing and have not been yet ready to depend on definitely inventive and weighty channels, somewhat because of the absence of confidence the customers have in unexplored mediums. So innovative thoughts are created and executed close by the ordinary techniques – more like doing the typical yet in an abnormal way. In most different nations today online networking promoting and advanced showcasing are exceptionally prevalent, yet in connection of our nation, absence of learning, confidence in changing and business reengineering process publicizing is confronting a boundary to advance.

While measuring the adequacy of special crusades of Ogilvy Bangladesh, just the 'brand Awareness' could be utilized as variable, not the greater part of the touchy income and brand execution information of the customer in light of the fact that these information aren't for the most part uncovered to the offices.

3. Insights

3.1 My Job Responsibility as an Intern

Ogilvy and Mather, one of the greatest publicizing organizations all around, the most vital work here is to produce one of kind thoughts for various brands and crusades. For instance: As Ogilvy does not uncover its promoting techniques, I am simply bound not to clear up and share different thoughts.

In our association workers are partitioned into gatherings or groups. It is essential to make a decent working association with the gathering individuals and also alternate representatives of the workplace. Once more, it is an open mystery that everybody must keep up a decent association with the partners moreover. As I was new in the workplace, I understood that it was my obligation to make great association with my gathering individuals and with their incredible backing.

3.2 Ensuring Effectiveness in Advertising

This section discusses certain examples where many variables have been kept under consideration in order to make advertising effective. An advertisement is only effective when it successfully and positively hits in the decision making process of the consumer. Thus an advertisement needs to consider the relevant internal physiological factors during the complete decision making process.

A Basic Model of the Consumer Decision Making Process:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Problem recognition</th>
<th>Information Search</th>
<th>Alternative Evaluation</th>
<th>Purchase Decision</th>
<th>Post Purchase evaluation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Relevant Internal Physiological Process:

| Motivation | Perception | Attitude Formation | Integration | Learning |
3.3 Motivation

A consumer needs to be motivated to purchase. An advertiser must know who his target customers are and how he shall demonstrate theirNeed to them, so shall they easily recognize the problem.

Changes in consumers’ lives often result in new needs and want, for example – changes in financial condition, employment or lifestyle. The 3G teaser series for teletalk 3G campaigns showed to the youth that there is something yet to come which would help them live boundless and make life much faster and easier. The ad simply motivates the youth right away. The thematic advertisement that followed next was a continuation to the teasers – highly motivating and extremely unique.

3.4 Perception

Perception is the process by which an individual receives, selects, organizes and interprets information to create meaningful picture of the world. It is an individual process and depends on internal factors such as a person’s beliefs, experiences, needs, moods and expectations.

The perceptual process is also influenced by the characteristics of a stimulus such as size, color, shape, intensity and the context to which it is seen and heard.

In the following print ad of Tang five different flavors were introduced by creating an essence of five different colors and demonstrating the fruits itself to help consumers build the perception in their minds about the five discreet flavors. The sunglasses emphasize on summer and how the drink shall be so soothing in such weather.

3.5 Attitude Formation and Integration

Attitudes are important to marketers because they summarize a consumer’s evaluation of an object – brand/company. It represents positive or negative feelings and behavioral tendencies. Marketer’s keen interest in attitudes is based on the assumption that they are related to consumers’ purchase behavior when positive attitude about a brand is formed, consumers choose it over other alternatives and this leads to a positive behavior – making a purchase decision.

The following advertisements for Tang, shows how a positive association may help to create a positive attitude towards the brand itself. They try to behave like a part of the consumers’ life. By offering Eid greetings and delivering a demonstration of product relevancy to the festival it creates a positive attitude right away and consumers exposed to it naturally generate a positive attitude towards the brand itself. It shows that Tang truly cares for their consumers.

3.6 Learning

After the purchase have been made, consumers truly learn about the product and whether they would stay loyal to it or not solely depends on their post purchase evaluation. Thus Advertisements must not be so farfetched and flattering that it raises the expectation of the consumers which the product would fail to deliver. This would lead to dissatisfaction and rejection to further use or repurchase which certainly is not the objective of any marketer.

It was a hot day, so he removed his coat, uncovering his notorious red suspenders. Ogilvy talked basically and specifically to his gathering of people on the opposite side of the camera.

The prediction he articulated in that grainy 7-minute film every one of those years back has happened, with a slug.

In spite of the fact that visionary, Ogilvy couldn't have envisioned exactly how capable his "mystery weapon" would get to be in the age of the Internet, or how it would at last be wielded by people building media organizations with simply a tablet and adequate amounts of exploration and sweat.

Watch the fantastic old man underneath. Make the association between Ogilvy's 80-year-old mystery and the standards we discuss around here week in and week out.

There is just the same old thing new under the sun; we just need the lowliness and insight to accurately apply the demonstrated astuteness and methodology that has preceded us…
Ladies and Gentlemen, I envy you. For forty years, I’ve been a voice crying in the wilderness. Today, my first love is coming to its own. You face a golden future.

4.5.1 Leadership as Marketing

House promotions kept running in the 60s and 70s to rustle up business for Ogilvy's own particular organization. Also, kid, did they work. They weren't conventional promotions. They looked and read like articles.

Advertisements like "How to Create Advertising That Sells" (1972), "How to Launch New Products" (1973), and "How to Make Successful Television Commercials" (1974) shared Ogilvy's best thoughts on powerful promoting.

On account of the liberality of Ogilvy's office today, you can read a large portion of those works of art on their Pinterest board.
In Ogilvy's words "The reason for my advertisements was to extend the organization as knowing more about publicizing (than different offices). My promotions not just guaranteed helpful data, they gave it. Furthermore, they worked — in numerous nations."

In today's reality where our customers are besieged with promoting content and need to make each second of their over-burden days number, Ogilvy's procedure of promising helpful data, as well as giving it in your substance can be significantly all the more effective.

As an exhausted representative, what kind of promoting substance will probably get your consideration: content that lets you know how superb an item or administration is, or content that instantly demonstrates to you proper methodologies to spare cash or show signs of improvement results?

What's more, what kind of promoting will probably set up the validity of the sponsor: advertising that claims their kin are specialists and demonstrates the grants they've won, or showcasing that promptly demonstrates it by sharing their bits of knowledge and thought authority?

4.5.2 Keeping it Classy

Ogilvy's house ads were classy as well. They realized that their list of customers would sound noteworthy. Yet rather than rubbing your nose in it and danger seeming like they were flaunting, they dropped them quietly into the substance of their articles with expressions such as "Would it be advisable for you to position SCHWEPPES as a soda pop - or a blender?" or "Would it be a good idea for you to position DOVE as an item for dry skin or as one which gets hands truly perfect?"

Ogilvy's promotions were striking as well. They cited more certainties, figures and illustrations than whatever other advertisements of the day. Also, they didn't talk down to perusers. They expected they were savvy and complimented them.

4.5.3 Calls to Action are a Must

Every promotion finished with a solid suggestion to take action. In some cases it incited you to reach them for more data (such as definite reports on promoting tips for particular segments). Here and there it was to request a welcome to a private presentation (e.g. sample for another numerical model for propelling an item). For every situation the invitation to take action offered further esteem, distinguished intrigued prospects, and started a progression of associations with them, bringing them into the business channel.

4.6 Bookmarks Awards: Digital Integration dominates Ogilvy & Mather SA

The organization bunch takes home sixteen grants over different expert units, with Gloo accepting the desired Best Agency recompense.

Nicholas Wittenberg, National Group Creative Director of OgilvyOne South Africa remarked on Comedy Central's South Park battle, which took home two gold and one silver recompense; "Good times TV's South Park crusade was an exemplary instance of how a testing spending plan can compel us to think pretty adroitly – I'd characterize this as an extraordinary illustration oblivious craft of guerrilla advertising".

The Bookmarks results take after the 2014 Assegai Awards, in November, for work in modernized and direct showcasing where OgilvyOne and Gloo similarly beat the association diagrams, leaving with 6 Golds, 7 Silvers, 4 Bronzes and 4 Leader gifts. –This years Bookmarks was another great showing for us,” said Pete Case, co-Chief Creative Officer of

Responsibilities & Tactics followed as an Intern

Creativity: Ogilvy & Mather, one of the biggest advertising agency in the world, has a reputation for generating unique ideas for different brands and campaigns. As a former intern of Ogilvy & Mater I am forbidden not to clarify and share any idea but I can certainly give some insights. For example: This new year we had an immense job of rebranding to promote one of our leading clients. After doing some brainstorming we finally had a major breakthrough and result was very fruitful. We suggest a new logo and tagline along with new marketing plans for our client.

Team Work: In our agency employees are isolated into small groups for better efficiency. It is imperative to make a decent working relationship with the group individuals and other personnel of the outfit. As I was new in the firm, I understood that it was my obligation to make great inter connection with my group members and make the best use of their appreciable support.

Digital Client-servicing: As an intern, my first and foremost duty was to ensure the satisfaction of our clients; In order to do that I personally monitored their projects to the core. My supervisor gave me the initial briefings about my task fitting our clients’ requirements. I consulted with the creative artists and brief them appropriately about the job in hand. In the primary stage of my internship, it was a pretty tough experience for someone like me. Being a new comer it’s not always easy to make collaboration with another department to complete the assignment for my team.

Day-to-day Operations: My day to day operations comprised of maintaining accounts management, creative Dept., Copyright Dept. and digital platform. It includes pursuing of ongoing campaign, sanctioned campaigns, monitoring the projects and going through the financial aspects. The best possible use of communication and an extraordinary thought prompted the achievement of the crusade. From the optional exploration it can be inferred that the crusade has been exceedingly powerful and intuitive with their objective business sector and to be sure was extremely unusual in the way they performed and sorted out the whole battle. However the truth of the matter is inescapable that, this was a case of a battle that utilized different media for publicizing among which facebook was the most vital one. The whole crusade process, spun around the idea of online networking and intelligence.
A buzz was made by the capricious publicizing channel: Facebook and even the business estimation of the item had a jump amid the battle period. It could be expected that despite the fact that our social setting is such that regularly customers feel cynic about going for capricious apparatuses, Facebook is an amazing media and it doesn't require going for bland media like Television, radio and so on. The Following screenshots will give a brief idea about the work I have done in my internship period:

a. Huawei Campaign (15th March, 2016)

b. Symphony Campaign (10th January, 2016)
c. Smash Board (22^{th} March, 2016)

Figure: Day to day operations (a) Huawei Mate8 Unlock campaign; (b) Symphony Bluetooth Speaker campaign; (c) maintenance of Facebook Page by using Smashboard.

Regulation: Another phase of my job is to oversee the Creative Dept. on daily basis so that the works get done within deadline and also to guide them through the process so that they don’t get off track. This part of my job stimulates a friendly relationship with the Creative Dept. which also helps me to enrich my leadership characteristics.

Send off: The responsibility of Dispatches of outputs is to confirm the right delivery of outputs to right places at the right time. My job starts after it has been dispatched. I have to keep an eye on all the works and deal with the customers personally. For example; when users were engaged in ―Mate 8 Unlock‖ contest, I had to go through all the post so that the relevant posts prevail.

The grimmest part of being in Digital department that had to work 24/7 as social media does not sleep!

Being an intern, I had an observation that most of the clients think that they know the brand communication strategy better than the agency. On the contrast agency is always a step ahead in marketing communication strategies. Advertising really hasn’t –ehanged‖ from its origin in our country. Rather, the modes and channels of advertising are seeing changes but in a snail’s pace. Billboards, print ads and TVCs are still used extensively for a campaign whether or not they are needed, and this occurs mostly in times where the client is stubborn about his decision and doesn’t want to risk not cohering to the generic mediums of marketing; most clients are yet learning to put complete trust in their advertising agencies to make the correct judgments (the agency-client distance). In a country like ours, extra-ordinary creative ideas in marketing campaigns, especially guerilla advertising that is widely popular in the outer world, rarely can be implemented as clients feel out of bound and not sure about using them. The later section discusses the points from the agency’s side of the view; the factors the employees of Ogilvy Bangladesh think are instrumental in today’s advertising and marketing communications.

Learning & Finding

- Customer’s Lifestyle
  It is essential for every marketer to have an understanding of the target group and then get into their lifestyle and become a major part of it. Interactive marketing is a very successful way of marketing. One way marketing is dull and uneventful which makes it mostly ignored. Day by day this type of marketing is demolishing.

- Visibility and attention-grabbing Content
  Although visibility is vital in marketing campaign, in today's advertising world the problem is rarely with lack of visibility but with over-exposure and untidiness. Due to the lack of creativity in the new ads, most of the time these ads go unnoticed by the audience. Now a day advertisers and agencies are shifting further away from the traditional method, instead they are coming up with newer and more exciting ways of to be noticed by the audience.

- Creating a Two-Way Communication
  A both way communication has become a key aspect for marketing and advertising these days. The chaotic nature of advertisement compels marketers to buy off their customers. Besides, number of brands approaching the market is very high, which leave the customers in a confused state of mind. It has become hard for customers to trust the advertisements they watch. This is because; consumers are deliberately given a little info to lure them buying a product. In today’s world customers need a platform where they are not only able to receive the brand’s end of the bargain but also able to give their feedback and feelings about it.

- Interactivity and Engagement
  Campaign effectiveness immensely relies on the level of interactivity a campaign brings.
  In terms of two-way communication, a marketing effort is most efficient when it attracts the target audience into the campaign, especially when the target group is the young generation.

- Emotional Connection
  Ads are becoming more and more emotional now; rational appeals have fallen short to emotional ones. Logical thinking is a sluggish and calculative process. Earlier ads tend to assume that customers spend time reading and thinking about ads, which is absurd. Making the consumers to think essentially reduce the chance of making a sale. That’s why; there is a heavy shift in advertisements for describing the product in order to focus the emotional side of consumers. Therefore, in digital world mocking and trolling are becoming more preferable as most of the social media users are teenagers along with people who are in their late thirties and they have something in common; all of them like funny things.

Objectives

A good and proper learner working in an renowned agency, my success completely depends on clearly defined objectives. As an intern my primary objective was to learn new digital marketing terms and my secondary objective was to execute the online inception and understanding the state of a matter that how deeply e-commerce goes in online.

Action

For action they decide their tool according to the situation. Tools they use:

- Google Adwords, Google Analytics Google Webmaster Tools
- Social Media Advertising Tool
- E-Mail Marketing Tools (Mail Chimp, Reach Mail, Target Hero)
Control

Ogilvy & Mather Bangladesh judges their total digital marketing campaign performance. Usually I have the full access of their campaigns. Here are the tools I typically use for controlling their campaigns to execute strategies properly:

- Smash Board
- Agora Pulse
- CPA Detective
- Alexa
- Social Media Insights
- AdManager

For a Digital Marketing Strategy Ogilvy & Mather always go for logical and authentic method.
