Chapter-2: Introduction to the Study

2.1 Rationale of the Study:

Any company has to consider a number of choices when it comes to designing the recruitment and selection process. Most of the organizations follow the traditional method for hiring an employee. Hiring the right employee is one of the most crucial tasks for the HR department of every organization. That is why it is necessary to follow a well construct recruitment and selection policy which ensures to attract a pool of eligible candidates so that the right person can be hired.

E-Recruitment process is a newly introduced method with a scope of reaching bigger audience than the traditional methods and it is also a cost effective way to reach a huge number of candidates within a very short period of time. As BanglaCAT is currently using the traditional procedure for their recruitment and selection process, that is why I have chosen the e-recruitment policy as the topic to prepare this report and also to find out if BanglaCAT is ready to accept this new policy or not.

2.2 Statement of the Problems:

- BanglaCAT needs to embrace new recruitment policies to create a broader scope for the interested candidates.
- E-Recruitment policy can make BanglaCAT’s recruitment process cost effective and time efficient.

2.3 Scope of the Study:

This study will offer the opportunity of getting a clear idea regarding the recruitment and selection process of BanglaCAT. Furthermore, it will also provide the chance to know about whether BanglaCAT is ready to adopt E-recruitment policy or not.

2.4 Delimitation of the Study:

There has been some limitations while prepare the report. These limitations are:

- BanglaCAT maintains a strict policy regarding the sharing confidential information. I could not gather all the information as those are very confidential. I was not given the permission to get that information as I was just an intern.
Another issue was time limitation as I had to focus on my daily official activities and also on the report within these three months.

2.5 Objectives of the Report:

The objectives of the report are:

- To provide a clear understanding regarding the recruitment and selection procedure of BanglaCAT.
- To determine if BanglaCAT is ready to accept change in its current recruitment system or not.
- To identify can E- recruitment enhance the recruitment system of BanglaCAT.
Chapter-3: Literature Review

According to (Anand, 2018) one of the most crucial job for the Human Resource employers of any organization or any business is to recruit the best fit as an employee. If the recruiter is successful in this task it can be considered as strength for that organization. However, if the scenario is opposite then the organization needs to bear the consequences of the mistake. They need to go through a lot of hassles because they need to train that employee and in extreme cases they need to fire the employee and hire a new one. The process of hiring becomes more costly in this case that is why hiring the right person for the right position is very important.

Researcher Saviour and Kofi (Saviour, 2016) through their research informed that organizations are putting more emphasize on human resource nowadays and it has become one of the significant sectors of the organizations. Employees are vital to the companies as they share perspectives, new ideas etc. Furthermore, they said that the recruitment process plays an important role here as it the method to get the desired candidates with desired qualifications. So it can be said that the recruitment and selection policies needs to be accurate to find out the best fit.

According to researcher Mindia and Hoque (Mindia, 2018), people are heavily dependent on technology nowadays. As a result of this, e-recruitment has become extremely famous among the organizations for recruiting and selecting employees. E-recruitment process is a medium to reach out to a huge number of candidates within a short period of time in a cost effective manner. Moreover, they added that the developed countries are using e-recruitment form a long period of time. On the other hand, Bangladesh is still a developing country and the people of our country is not that much familiar with the concept of e-recruitment. If this system can be adopted properly, the cost associated with the hiring process will be reduced and also the time required to hire an employee will be minimized.
Chapter-4: Methodology

4.1 Methods of research used:

A questionnaire had been prepared to complete the survey as it is an inexpensive, quick, and flexible way to collect information. I used the questionnaire to collect the response of the respondents. This method is known as self-administered questionnaires.

4.2 Respondents and sampling procedures:

Population: The employees of BanglaCAT were my target population.

Sample: Getting information from the entire population is a tough job. That is why I used sampling procedure. I took 30 respondents as a sample.

4.3 Research instruments/ questionnaire:

I had prepared 10 questions for conducting the survey. All of the questions were close ended question with multiple choices answers. Among these 10 questions, 5 questions (1,2,7,8,10) were likert scale based questions and 5 questions (3,4,5,6,9) were nominal scale based questions.

4.4 Collection of data:

Primary data collection: I passed the survey questionnaire among 30 respondents and used their responses as the primary data. Furthermore, I took personal interview of some of the employees which helped me to collect data.

Secondary data collection: I went through the HR policy book of BanglaCAT so that I can get information regarding the recruitment and selection procedures of the company. Moreover, I went through some other websites and some journals with similar topic to get the required data.

4.5 Statistical treatment of data:

I used Microsoft Excel to prepare pie charts so that I can provide a graphical representation of the survey result.
Chapter-5: Analysis and Interpretation of the Data

Here in the question no 1, I asked that if BanglaCAT’s recruitment and selection process are fair and bias free or not. A major portion actually agreed that yes it is bias free. 39% of them said that they strongly agree on this matter and other 38% said that they agree on this statement. 23% marked that they are neutral about to comment in this matter. It can mean in either ways but most of the employees agree that BanglaCAT’s recruitment and selection process is fair and bias free. The result certainly shows that the majority of BanglaCAT’s employee believes that the recruitment and selection process is pure and bias free.

Question 2

- Highly Agree: 40%
- Agree: 20%
- Neutral: 17%
- Disagree: 19%
- Highly Disagree: 4%
Here in the second question, they were asked if the recruiting process of employees is appropriate enough to judge a candidate properly or not. Here I found varieties of answer. 40% which is the largest portion here highly agreed on this matter and another 19% agreed. On the other hand, total 24% people marked the disagree portion, where 20% of them disagreed and 4% of them strongly disagreed with the matter. Furthermore, 17% here marked neutral on this matter. As it can be seen that the results reflect a mixed version of reactions regarding the recruitment process of BanglaCAT which more or less clearly indicates that people still confused about the hiring system. If I count both neutral and disagree portion then it can be seen that total 41% around is either neutral or disagree which is can be considered as an alarming situation for BanglaCAT. However, 59% participants agreed on this matter with confidence that the procedures are sufficient enough to judge all the candidates.

Here in the question no 3, I asked them about the selection procedures that BanglaCAT uses to complete its hiring process. Here I got to know about the steps being followed in hiring process. 90% of the participants said that the candidates need to go through written test, and personal interview. Furthermore, 10% of them said that the candidates need to go through an online aptitude test, written test, and then personal interview. The written test or aptitude test basically gives a glimpse of the knowledge of a candidate. To judge a candidate or to get a clear view of the candidate’s mentality, personal interview is conducted.
Here in the question no 4, I had asked that whether they are satisfied with the current recruitment and the selection process of BanglaCAT or not. Surprisingly, the answer shows mixed type of output here. 58% of the employees said yes they agree with the statement and they are fully satisfied with the current recruitment and selection process of BanglaCAT. On the contrast, the rest of amount which is 42% of the participants said they are not satisfied with the current recruitment and the selection process of BanglaCAT. This is an alarming situation as almost half of the participants are not happy with the current recruitment process of the organization.

In this question, the participants were asked about their opinion regarding the urgency of improvement of the current recruitment and selection process of BanglaCAT. 89% of them said yes, they think the recruitment and the selection process needs to be improved. It means that they are indicating that the process is not up to the mark considering the recent competition in the business. On the other hand 11% people said they do not think that the recruitment and selection process needs to be improving at all. From this result it can be said that the company needs to start thinking about how to improve the hiring system.

When the participants were asked whether they are familiar with E-recruitment or online recruitment process or not, 83% of the people answered that they know about it. On the other hand, 17% of the employee marked that they do not know about the e-recruitment process. As online recruitment is one of the latest medium of recruitment, so the employees need to be informed about this method so stay up to date.
Here on the question no 7, I wanted to find out their opinion whether they think online recruitment process will be easier to sort out the candidates easily or not. The answers came out with different mixture of opinions. 46% of them highly agreed that this process will help to sort out candidates. Moreover, 11% of them agreed with the statement. However, surprisingly 21% of the employee thinks that the online recruitment will not help to sort out candidates easily or properly. In addition to that, 22% remain silent as they marked neutral. So we can see that a noticeable portion of the employees do not think that online recruitment process will help to sort out problems at any case.

In this statement “Online recruitment process will save time for both the candidates and the recruiters of BanglaCAT” I tried to know about their opinion and I found that 49% of them highly agreed and 12% agreed with the statement. On the other hand, 19% remain silent about this; they were neutral about this fact. 20% of them disagreed on this matter. So here majority of the portion agreed with the fact that it is a time saving process for both sides. As a result, it can be said that online recruitment process will be helpful to save time of hiring an employee.
To find out the perspective of the employees, I asked them whether the online recruitment process will broaden the scope for the candidates or not. The hidden purpose of this question was to know about whether the recruiters are concerned about the candidates or not. Here 81% believed that the online recruitment process will be helpful to broaden the scope for candidates. On the other hand 19% said they do not think that it will create a broader scope for the candidates. So, the majority of the participants believe that online recruitment process will help to broaden the scope for the candidates.

In this statement “Online recruitment not only provides the opportunity to attract candidates from home and abroad, but also helps to promote the company”, I tried to know about their opinion regarding the e-recruitment process and I found that 39% of them highly agreed and 34% agreed with the statement. On the other hand, 21% remain silent about this; they were neutral about this fact. Only 6% of them disagreed with this statement. So here majority of the portion agreed with the fact that it is a way to promote the organization alongside with attracting more candidates. When people will send a link for recruitment registration, at that time the company information will automatically approach there so as a result of it, more people will be able to know about the organization.
Chapter-6: Findings

- Human Resource department has a lot of documents regarding CV and other personal information’s. It is really tough to maintain such bulk of papers. Furthermore, it takes more time than usual to fine any important documents sometimes. As there are a lot of files in different places.

- BanglaCAT HR collects CV’s from online but they don’t have any online recruitment or assessment process.

- BanglaCAT’s pay scale is lower than its competitors in the market. That is the reason of less people dropping their CV’s in BanglaCAT.

- When it comes to recruiting employees, BanglaCAT prefers public university student mostly like BUET/ MIST etc. However, private university students also have the potential to do better but they are not getting the chance from the recruiters.

- Internal recommendation is mostly preferred rather than finding quality candidates.

- BanglaCAT has less promotional activity to the universities compared to other companies.

- Sometimes the work load goes unbearable because of the schedule.

- Company facilities for employees are impressive, especially health care insurance etc.

- Working environment is really friendly in BanglaCAT. They really care about their employees. One can get a helping hand anytime while facing any problem.
Chapter 7: Recommendations

- The communication system of Human Resource department needs to be improved. For example, if any employee is not selected or eliminated HR should inform them by sending an email and by text.

- The working pressure is immeasurable sometimes. HR should hire more employees as the number of employee working in HR department is really small comparing the workload. Hiring more employees will eventually minimize the work load and this will obviously increase the quality of the work.

- An online aptitude test would have been much easier to understand the employee mentality and situation. Furthermore, it will help to sort out candidates.

- BanglaCAT conducts too much paper work in the office. Documentation process is a backdated method now. Using Data cloud server or barcode system for storing each employees information would be much easier and faster to get.

- More promotional activities on different universities will help to get more quality candidates for job posting and they should definitely provide more opportunity to private university students, not only to public university students.

- BanglaCAT should use online recruitment process to hire employees. It will help them to reach to a large number of candidates within a short period of time. Moreover, it will minimize the cost associated with the recruitment and selection process.

- The salary range should be a bit higher in order to match with the current market. Otherwise, employee turnover rate will eventually increase as they will move to other organizations will high pay scale.
Chapter-8: Conclusion

In the conclusion, I would like to say that BanglaCAT has a good reputation in the market, and it is operating its activities in a well-structured manner. BanglaCAT can also be the market leader and become the most trusted organization in every sector if the employees work hard. Recruitment and selection process is very crucial for any company and in companies like BanglaCAT, this is even more challenging to find the perfect candidate so that the job can be conducted in a proper way.

A regular recruitment process like collecting CV’s, taking written test and calling for viva is fine. However, if there was a system to judge and get an overview of candidates’ psychology, knowledge by online recruitment test, it will be better. That is why I believe that BanglaCAT should introduce online recruitment process in its recruitment and selection process. It will be helpful to sort out employees and aptitude tests will help them to select the right candidate will help the company to increase the level of reputation, value of the company and enhance its glory.
