CHAPTER- 3

Literature Review
3.1 About Human Resource Management

Human resource management is few functions performed in organizations which designed to capitalize on employee performance of an employer's strategic objectives. Human resource is mainly concerned with the management of persons within establishments, concentrating on policies and systems. HR departments and units in institutions normally accept a number of activities, including employee selection and recruitment, performance appraisal, training and development, and rewarding etc. HR is also concerned with industrial associations, that is, the balancing of organizational applies with desires arising from collective negotiating and from governmental laws.

The Human resource practice began after the human relations movement of the early 20th century, when researchers began verifying ways of making business value through the strategic supervision of the employees. The purpose was initially dominated by transactional work, such as benefits administration and payroll, but due to company consolidation, globalization, technological advances, and further research, Human resource as of 2015 focuses on strategic edges like mergers and acquisitions, succession planning, talent management, diversity and inclusion and industrial and labor relations.

In the current global work environment, most companies concentrate on lowering staff turnover and on keeping the ability and information held by means of their employees. New hiring not merely entails a higher cost but also increases the danger of some sort of newcomer not to be able to replace the one who was in that position before. HR divisions also make an effort to offer benefits that could appeal to help workers, thus reducing the danger of losing corporate information.

3.2 Functions of HRM

The performance of the HR function is restrained largely in expressions of employee and customer contentment feedback metrics. The background of the HR function is increasingly for HR managers to have had line experience. For getting best productivity Rahimafrooz has a strategic work outline. The Human Resources Department currently has some different functions wings. These are:
3.3 Recruitment

Recruitment refers to the process of discovering the right people for the right job as well as function, usually carried out by the Human Resource Department. Different tasks require different abilities. So, suitability for any job is normally assessed by seeking skills, such as communication skills, laptop or computer skills. Evidence for skills essential for a job might be provided by means of qualifications (educational as well as professional), experience in the job requiring this relevant skills as well as the testimony regarding references. Following are the two main recruitment methodologies utilized by the company currently:

(a) Internal Recruitment

(b) External Recruitment

3.3.1 Internal Recruitment

This includes filling vacancies by means of internal means through existing employees. Following questions should be asked. Will there be an internal candidate who could occupy the role? Do you know the strengths, limitations in addition to training required? Initial consideration should be given to the particular company’s employees, particularly for filling vacancies above the beginner’s. If external efforts are undertaken without taking into consideration the desires, capabilities in addition to potential of existing employees, a company may perhaps incur both short and long run costs. In brief run, morale may perhaps degenerate, in the long run companies with any reputation for reliable neglect of in-house talent may battle to attract new individuals available through different channels.
3.3.2 External Recruitment:
To meet requirements and vacancies from external sources for brilliancy brought about by growth, desire for fresh thoughts or to replace employees who leave corporations periodically turns to the outside employment marketplace. The “Five” most popular external recruitment sources are:

- Job consultants
- Recruitment advertising
- Referrals
- Campus Placement
- Online Application

3.4 Selection
Employee Selection is the procedure of putting right person on right job. It is a procedure of matching organizational desires with the skills, experiences and qualifications of people. Effective selection could be possible only when there is effective matching. By selecting best contender for the requisite job, the organization will get quality output from the employees. Furthermore, organization will face less of nonattendance and employee turnover problems. By selecting right contender for the requisite job, organization will also save money and time. The selection procedure is basically the proper screening of candidates. All the potential candidates who apply for the particular job are tested in this process. But selection must be distinguished from recruitment, though these are two phases of employment process. Recruitment is measured to be a positive process as it influences more of candidates to apply for the job. It creates a group of applicants. It is just sourcing of data. While the inappropriate candidates are rejected here so selection is also a negative process too.

3.4.1 Selection Procedure
The selection process can be successful if the following requirements are satisfied:

- Someone should have the right to select. This right comes from the employee requisition as developed by an analysis of the work-load and workforce.
- There must be some standard of staffs with which a prospective employee may be associated i.e. comprehensive job description and job specification should be available earlier.
- There must be sufficient quantity of applicants from whom the compulsory number of employees may be selected.
3.5. Rahimafrooz Corporate Recruitment and Selection Policy

There has to be a business obligation to fill up the vacancy. The direct line manager should patterned first whether the rearranging current roles can meet role requirements & responsibilities. SBU's to create and maintain validated Managing Plan as part of their ABP.

➢ To ensure composure across the Rahimafrooz Group, the obligation for recruitment Grade-10S & above is with Group HR. Divisional HR will ensure full recruitment process for Grade-10 & below for their particular divisions & SBU/Businesses under their divisions. 4.1. My Task during internship

I joined Rahimafrrooz as an intern on 1st June 2015. The internship program duration is three months. I am placed in Human Resource Department. I will work there for till 30 August 2015. During this period of time I work as a part of recruitment and selection such as CV sorting, Calling candidates for interviews and Helping seniors in interviews procedure, Coordinating and helping new employees to complete joining procedures, helping in taking written exams of candidates. Now I would like to specify and focus on my major work and responsibilities of Recruitment and Selection Process.

Update old files: Before all employees files based on paper, which creates lots of problems to maintain because it needs lot of space, paper, cabinet to keep, spend time to search and main problem was it has risk to lose. So now we convert it from paper based to computer based. And also search those papers which are missing and add these.

Creating New Files: At a time more than one people can join in an organization and all of them have different files which creates by us. Lots of papers we have to accumulate with new files like joining forms, disclosures forms, declaration forms, gratuity forms, Conflict of Interest, Medical reports, Pre-employment medical test, CV with Certificates, Job Advertisement, Manpower Requisition forms, CV shortening criteria, Tabulation Sheets (1st interview, 2nd interview, written test), Approval note, Appointment Letter etc.

4.2 Observation

- HR Division is very attentive for selecting applicants and also the process is very crystal clear so that they can select the best candidates among applicants.
- When they search for any experienced people they stretch more attentiveness on past experienced, Educational background, span of services etc. so that they can select the most appropriate experienced people.
- In this process there is no discrimination so there are higher likelihoods to be selected without having any reference.
- When they select fresh graduate they focus more on pro-activeness, ideas, creativity, and academic performances which can suit the job offered.
- In the time of calling the candidates for interview or written exam, the executives call several time to make sure of his/her arrival.

Recommendation and Conclusion
Recommendation

In my short duration of internship I have tried to figure out their problems in terms of their recruitment and selection process. Rahimafrooz Bangladesh Limited (RABL) is quite able to ensure brilliancy in their performance but still I think they can improve their performance in following area.

1. The software and network system of HR department is not updated. They should adopt the updated software to work more swiftly and efficiently.

2. They need to modify their compensation package as it become more attractive for the applicants.

3. Rahimafrooz focus mainly on experience candidates, they should need to focus on employing more fresh graduates as well, as fresh graduates can bring more new ideas and creativity within the organization.

4. They have few training facilities; they can establish more trainings for the employees as they can develop their skill more.

5. Rahimafrooz administration must change the structure of appointing people by giving their reference. It has been deeply witnessed that most of the reference appointees are not up to the standard and performed poorly.

6. HR forecasting system need to improve more as it is the most important part of HR planning

7. Organization should hire more Skill executive in HR department because there has insufficient manpower.

8. Rahimafrooz needs to be more focused on CSR activities and welfare programs for employees.
Conclusion

Internship is an important part for MBA Degree. It teaches us the worth of reality and how things are done in real life. It is a bridge between theoretical and practical phases of education and workplace. I have learned so much from this practical experience. It was a perfect end to the education in BRAC University. I liked working with Rahimafrooz HR Department which made my work fascinating and productive.

Rahimafrooz has always highlighted on developing a good leadership system in order to achieve its desired businessgoals. To choose the best personnel who will lead the organization in future an effective recruitment and selection process is more than a desire aspect. And for that reason the organization should give more emphasize on selecting a person who can carry forwarded the organization in terms of development, values and ethics. Mainly the precious resource for any organization is their knowledge based efficient workers. During the time of internship I give maximum concentration to learn their Human resource practice. The Human resource practice, employee satisfaction and relations, recruitment and selection process at Rahimafrooz is a very established and effective one. The most vital key source factor of Rahimafrooz is its capable human resource. I have learned a lot of things from the vastly experienced executives of Rahimafrooz. I finally want to thank Mohammad Rezaur Razzak sir for his kind supervision and assistance without which it would be impossible for me to complete the report.
