BRAC UNIVERSITY

* The arc of circle -- suggests the wish to reach education to an international standard and milieu.

* The symbolic presentation of three books towards the bottom of the design-- suggests different stages, levels and subjects of education. An all round broad-based education has been emphasized here. The suggestive drawing of open books stresses a disciplined and dynamic development of education.

* The three colors used in the design -blue, silver and black; the size and shape of the letters that spell BRAC UNIVERSITY, and the balanced presentation of the three books and the circle suggest that BRAC University is a strong and dynamic institution of international standard dedicated to achieving the aims of education, peace, equality and discipline.

February 07, 2007

It gives me immense pleasure to know that BRAC University is going to hold its 2nd Convocation on February 8, 2007. On the occasion of the august convocation, I congratulate all graduating students and the university authority as a whole.

Globalisation, which can be described as a state of total competition, needs competent and knowledgeable persons to face the challenges of the 21st century. Universities are the main sources of producing capable human resources. I hope, the authority of educational institutions will put their best efforts to provide quality education for the sake of the nation.

I wish the convocation great success.

On the auspicious occasion of BRAC University's second convocation, I would like to congratulate all the graduating students, their proud parents and the teachers and staff of the university, whose concerted efforts have brought us to the celebration of this milestone.

Only six years ago, BRAC University started with just three departments and around 80 students. Today, we are proud to say that it has grown to five undergraduate departments along with four post-graduate schools for Business, Law, Public Health and Education as well as a Centre for Governance Studies. Over 2,000 students are currently enrolled in BRAC University. This success was inevitable, as the students, teachers and staff have all worked tirelessly to make BRAC University one of the top institutions of higher learning in our country. Today's convocation is a testimony to this.

BRAC University's aim has been to bring about positive change through the creation of a centre of excellence in higher education that is responsive to the evolving needs of society. Towards this goal, the university strives to not only produce educated graduates, but individuals who are committed, confident, creative and ethical.

As they leave BRAC University and begin a new phase in their lives, I am confident that, with the knowledge and experience they have gained here, our graduates will go on to provide a high measure of service to society.

I am extremely proud of each one of them and I wish them all success.

Professor Jamilur R. Choudhury

Ph.D FIE, FICE(UK) CEng(UK)

Vice Chancellor

February 8, 2007 marks an important day for us at BRAC University. This day is a celebration of success, much of which will rest on the people who make up BRAC University - students, faculty, staff, parents, members of the governing board and academic council, alumni and our foreign academic institutional partners.

As BRAC University we pride ourselves in providing education, which is beyond 'just academic knowledge'. We support students' intellectual and personal growth preparing them to become transformational leaders and citizens with a sound ethical sense and values.

I am happy to note that the Graduates of 2006, who formally received their degree about a year back, have already started making contributions to different sectors, which reflect positively to the image of our university.

A word of advice to the graduating class of 2007: you have undoubtedly achieved success today, but your success will be measured by your ability to address challenges that you will face in life as managers. Towards that end hone your problem solving skills, sharpen your enquiring mind, be a good team player and develop a positive attitude.

I am confident that you will prepare for a future of opportunities and take on a world of infinite possibilities

Professor Jamilur Reza Choudhury

Vice Chancellor

I write to offer my congratulations and felicitations on your graduation from BRAC University. You are a graduate of a young University, but BRAC already has a world-wide reputation for service to humanity; and as a graduate of that great institution you are the inheritor of a proud tradition of public service and learning.

Your liberal education at BRAC University has bestowed on you the greatest gift that any one can seek - a disciplined and an enquiring mind that you can put to use in any field of human endeavour that you may choose. A disciplined mind is one that can distil information, formulate questions, sift through evidence, marshal arguments, separate the trees from the wood, organize the facts cogently, explain a phenomenon, and draw conclusions based on the evidence. It is the most valuable skill that you will ever acquire; and if you continue to nurture it well, it will remain a life long asset. Liberal education not only trains and disciplines the mind; it inculcates in you the power of rational reasoning, prepares you to become useful citizens of democratic societies and gives you the analytical tools needed for the pursuit of a profession.

The great advantage of an education that trains and disciplines the mind is that it give you a portable skill and a capacity for life long learning. Your education has taught you to lead a life of reflection and self-examination; the space to discover yourself and to ask yourself who you are and what is important to you; it has put the fire in your belly, enabled you to find your passions and to discover what gives you a purpose in life. And most importantly it has liberated you from the existence of a robot whose mind parrots inherited wisdom and prejudices.

Your education is not only about training the mind and equipping you with skills to operate in a global society; it is also an intellectual preparation and a means to foster social and civic commitments so as to enable you to participate effectively in public life and fulfill your role as a citizen. If you can transcend the self and dedicate yourself to the service of humanity you will have upheld the highest ideals of BRAC. Destiny awaits you.

At BU, learning extends beyond the classroom. Whether it is exploring Asian architecture in China, participating in a case competition in Seattle, engaging in an internship program at Manila, discovering Tagore's humanistic vision at Shantiniketan, or presenting papers at international conferences, BU students have been actively and inquisitively exploring the world beyond BU and leaving their mark on it. Study tours and field trips frequently complement classroom learning, and our students hone their skills by participating in programming contests, case competitions, design competitions, debates, etc. They have published papers in international journals and traveled as far as Canada and the Netherlands to present their research. Our students have been selected to attend the US State Department funded South Asian Undergraduate Student Leaders Institute. BU encourages intellectual curiosity and involvement with the larger world which will prepare them to be enlightened global citizens.

Student Affairs

BU takes great pride in being a student-centred institution that is profoundly dedicated to diversity in its student body. In view of that, the Student Affairs office (SAO) provides full support and encouragement to achieve excellence in realizing an all rounded education. SAO assists and complements student learning by offering quality services and programs that add depth, fun and enriches students' social, cultural, ethical and intellectual growth. SAO collaborates with students, faculty, staff, alumni, and community to make the co-curricular arena a vibrant one.

Students at BU participate in a thriving extracurricular arena with 22 active clubs and forums. Each semester kicks off with a Club Fair where all the clubs and forums set up booths showcasing their activities in order to attract new members. The clubs and forums organize seminars, workshops, study tours, film shows, cultural programs, debates, community service, sporting events, etc. They also represent BU at various inter-university and national level competitions. Residential Semester at Savar

A unique feature of BRAC University is its Residential Semester, during which students live in the fully residential Savar campus, take a specially designed set of courses, and participate in a range of activities that promote holistic/overall development. Being placed in a microcosm away from their families and the familiarity of Dhaka city, they must learn to be disciplined, responsible, and independent. The RS courses take full advantage of the residential setting by emphasizing group-work, presentations and co-curricular activities. The Bangladesh Studies course organizes excursions to development projects and national heritage sites, the Ethics course runs workshops and practical exercises related to ethics and leadership, and the EL-Pro course organizes weekly co-curricular activities to improve communicative fluency in English. Extracurricular activities are also a major component of the Residential Semester. From sports and physical education to cultural programs and debates, everyone is required to participate. There are inter-dorm competitions on everything from volleyball to wall magazines to debating, emphasizing the importance of leadership as well as teamwork. Students return from RS with improved confidence, interpersonal skills, and a better sense of themselves.

Professional Skills Development Program

BU ensures that every undergraduate student develops a professional image before they embark on their journey for the world of employment. A Professional Skills Development Program provided by the Career Services Office is a semester long program and packed with all the elements necessary for the job market - Business Etiquette, CV writing, Career Success Planning & Interviewing Skills.

El-Pro

The English Language Program, or El-Pro, is a rigorous program spread over two years designed to improve English proficiency. Every student is assessed and placed in one of 8 modules, which means that classes can address the specific needs of students at each level. The program is enriched by visiting faculty from abroad who teach courses and conduct workshops for faculty. A hallmark of El-Pro courses is creating an enjoyable and student-centred learning environment through fun co-curricular activities like watching movies, designing wall magazines, etc. so that students remain motivated while they learn.

Teaching & Learning Centre (TLC)

Vision: A university that has made creating a student centred learning environment part of its regular agenda.

Mission: To build awareness, encourage and facilitate a student centered learning environment across the departments of the university.

The Teaching Learning Centre at BRAC University works both with faculty and students to examine attitudes to learning and learning. As an example of the most recent intervention, the Ethics and Culture course has been redesigned as a learner centred course and is currently being offered at the Residential Semester of BRAC University. As part of the course, each student becomes a member of an Ethics Committee that evaluates ethical issues of their immediate environment, reflects on self-attitudes, designs and conducts interventions to help build awareness in the society. The goal is to allow students to critically evaluate their own ethical stand in relation to the society around them.

Let me first welcome you to real life!!

Hey don't worry. I am not saying you were not living a real life so far, of course you were. But so far your life was protected, secure in the hands of your parents, teachers or friends to whom you bring joy of success. As you start another journey, which I call the real journey you might find yourself lonely, confused and pushed to the limits, but never ever think of giving up. The joy of life is in embracing the challenges and difficulties, welcoming the unknown and fighting the odds.

I strongly believe that BRAC University has equipped you with all the weapons that you need to win the war in the real world. This institution truly instills strong values among the students which act as foundation for successful individuals. In this journey of life do not forget your values because how you win is equally important as winning the war.

"What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us".

With all the best wishes for your promising future.....

Life after graduation

I thought it was hard to get an MBA degree, but trust me it is even harder once you graduate and have to find a full-time job. That's the real acid test in life. I was lucky because I was placed by the Career Services Office for an internship program at Citibank NA that eventually pushed me closer to the job of my dreams at the Citibank NA. All seems so easy, but I had to live up to all the expectations and see myself climb the career ladder, so the list is endless in your path to career progress. I believe that progress in this regard comes swiftly for those who try their hardest and those who believe in mentors. My mentors at BU played a major role in my life for they gave me wisdom and guidance without prejudice. Finally remember that perseverance is the key.

*Din Md. Shibly Feroz, MBA
Asst Manager, Credit & Risk Management Services, Citibank NA*

In my four years at BRAC University, through the ups and downs of being the first batch, BU has changed my life completely. BU has taught me how to develop my confidence, has given me the courage to boost my self-esteem and has shown me the attitude with which to take on challenges of any form and mould it into a positive outcome.

It has been two years since I completed my graduation and journeyed into the real world. Every obstacle I have faced so far, I always had a remedy for it and for that I always give credit to those four years at BU, especially the innovative programs such as the Residential Semester at TARC and the EL-PRO courses. Knowledge is power, but BU has shown me that the methodology of acquiring knowledge is supremacy. I remain eternally grateful to BU for teaching me the proper ethics, etiquette and moral values, which have invaluable contributed to my successful career.

*Ziad Bin Hyder
Sr. Corporate Officer, Texas Group*

It has been about a year since I graduated from BRAC University. A lot has changed in this period. I have taken on my first formal job ever. I have learnt to accept responsibility, to complete tasks immediately instead of procrastinating and to have the courage to take on new tasks. I have learnt to carve a place for myself among complete strangers. I grew up hearing from a lot of people that university life is the most precious time in a person's life; the only period when one can be responsible for one's entire life and yet not have too much to worry about. Looking back, I realize how true that is. Today, when I take decisions, I know that it will have larger consequences; it will effect the futures of other people as well; it will effect the outcome of the organization I work for. Today, I represent more than my family or myself. I represent my university and my workplace. Out in the open in the job world, words I say or actions I take will give a lot of people a generalized idea of what BRAC University students are like. That is a big responsibility to shoulder; it takes away my liberty to go wrong. I look back and wonder if life was better without this responsibility. Starting to feel a little apprehensive about the future, I turn around take a good look at my past. I see myself standing there, giving me the thumbs up sign, and assuring me that life will work out just fine. I smile and turn back around, ready to take on whatever life has to offer. It will all work out fine...

*Nahteen Zahra
Research Assistant, Research and Development, BRAC*

The distinct advantage that BRAC University (BU) offers to the students and alumni alike is not only its quality education, but its relentless dedication to develop the students. BU constantly tries to produce well-rounded graduates who can manage and flourish on a competitive global environment through its various programs such as Professional Skills Development Program (PSDP), English Language Program (EL-PRO), and exclusive Networking sessions, Residential Semesters in Savar campus.

Even after coming back from my year long management traineeship in Manila, I found the same level of support and enthusiasm from BU in order to establish my career in Bangladesh.

BU Anthem

জীবনের সিঁড়ি বেয়ে
উজ্জল আগামীর পথে
আমরা এগিয়ে যাই
দেশ ও মানুষের জন্য॥

হৃদয়ের মাঝে বয়ে চলা সুর
ছুঁয়ে যায় আমার অনুভব
আমার প্রিয় এ প্রাপ্তনের
মিলিত প্রানের স্পন্দনো॥

অবারিত নীলিমায়
ডানা মেলে উড়ে যায়
হাজারো স্বপ্ন, প্রত্যাশা
এক হয়ে মিশে যাক
সৃষ্টিতে, চির তারুণ্যে॥
