

CASPER- BRACU extends hands towards the flood victims

YO Desk

Published : Thursday, 1 June, 2017 at 12:00 AM, Count : 48

A+ A- A

CASPER- BRACU extends hands towards the flood victims

The team of CASPER- BRAC University went to help and stand by the flood stricken victims of Thakurbhog village of Sunamganj on May 19, 2017, says a press release.

Along with the help of BRAC University Adventure club (BUAC) and Khuddro Proyas Organisation, CASPER- BRAC University was able to distribute relief to 150 flood affected families. Besides them, Shurjodoy Foundation also helped tremendously during the relief distribution.

CASPER- BRACU conducted a survey where it was found that 66% of the people received relief for the very first time. According to them, if the public and private organisations stepped in to provide the victims with seeds, nets for catching fish and dig wells for clean drinking water, the grief stricken people of the flood affected area will be able to recover their lost smile. So, the members of CASPER- BRACU are urging people to come forward and show the victims their love and support.