

Seminar on 'Parenting' held at BRAC University

Published on November 1, 2010 @ 10:27 am

A seminar on 'Parenting' was held at BRAC University on 23rd October, Saturday. Counseling unit of BRAC University organized the seminar with a view to intensifying the parent-child relationship in the practical life.

Professor Md. Golam Samdani Fakir, Pro Vice Chancellor of BRAC University formally inaugurated the seminar at the auditorium of the university at 10.00am. Mrs. Farida Akhtar, Psychologist/Counselor and consultant to counseling unit and Mahbuba Naznin Sani, Lecturer and Senior Counselor jointly conducted the seminar.

Lady Syeda Sarwat Abed, Director, Centre for Languages; Mr. Ishfaq Ilahi Choudhury, Registrar; and Professor Sanaul Mostafa, Dean, BRAC Business School of BRAC University were also present in the seminar.

Mrs. Farida Akhtar presented the role and quality of the successful parents. She said that children are the greatest asset for all parents. Children learn most of the behavior and habits both good and bad from their parents.

In this regard, she suggested fourteen qualities to achieve for being the good and successful parents. Both of them emphasized on the point that 'Every child is unique', so parents should respect the individuality of their child without making comparison with others and not to demoralize or humiliate them.

Parents and guardians of the BRAC University students took part in the seminar.

BNN/PR/KH/IM/16.30hrs.