Students encouraged to think positive

Staff Correspondent

A group of young leaders at a programme yesterday inspired and encouraged the students of a university to think positive, and create innovative ideas for bringing change in the society.

They shared their experiences at a programme titled 'Unleashing Youth' at Brac University auditorium in the capital.

The Business and Economic Forum (BEF), a forum of the students of Brac, organised the event.

More than hundreds of students of Brac University were present.

Korvi Rakshand, founder of Jaggo Foundation, inspired the young participants to come forward for welfare of the people.

Another youth, Mozammel Haque, who has been inspiring the people to use bicycle to get rid of the sufferings of traffic jam, shared his experience with the participants.

Adnan MS Fakir, director of the Finding Bangladesh, inspired the young participants to move around to enjoy the country's beauty and know the history.

Asif Iqbal, Shariful Islam, among others, took part in the discussion.

Tanjim Ferdous, founder president of the BEF, moderated the programme.
