

The Daily Star

Published: Thursday, November 28, 2013

The Jukebox at BRAC University

BRAC University Cultural Club arranged 'The Jukebox' — formerly known as 'The Music Grunge' — on November 22 and 23, 2013 with a view to raise funds for the underprivileged of the university. A symphonised line-up of around eighteen bands, including popular underground bands, performed this year. The programme kicked off with a bang as the band Poraho came up on the stage with a couple of their hit numbers. Band 12AM showed much promise in their rock and roll infused performances, while Agniveena gave Nazrul's music a whole new dimension. Arbovirus enlivened the stage with their short yet gripping performance. The day ended with the bands Moruvumi and Karnival performing.

The second day started with mellow acoustic renditions of Bappa, Adele and Gaga by Amid and Rafid. The show quickly showed its true colours as Oboyob hit the stage. Minerva's heavy metal music brought a different edge to the show while Circus Police, Indalo and Heal's interactive attitude engaged the crowd. The brilliant sound of the show was brought to effect by Sound Opera, while The Independent and Radio Foorti were media partners.