Prof Mofiz Uddin Ahmed of Brac University died from a sudden heart attack on Friday, aged 61.

He left behind his wife Ambar Shamim Malik and two sons and a daughter, says a press release.

He joined the Buet in 1984 as an assistant professor, and also served the Bangladesh Atomic Energy Commission from 1985 to 1994 as a senior scientific officer and later chief scientific officer.

Mofiz was a researcher with 103 publications published in various journals, mostly on plasma physics and astrophysics.
