MoU between AIBS and BRACU

American Institute of Bangladesh Studies (AIBS) and BRAC University (BRACU) entered into a memorandum of understanding (MoU) on mutual collaboration on December 28, 2015 that took place at BRAC University, Dhaka. The MoU covers joint research collaboration between AIBS member higher education institutions in the United States and BRACU. It also includes exchange of educational and research staff as well as exchange of publication, academic materials and other information between the two institutions.

The MoU was signed by Dr. Golam Mathbor, President of AIBS and Prof. Syed Saad Andaleeb, Ph.D., VC of BRACU. Among others, Dr. Farhat Iftekharuddin, Pro-VC (in-charge), BRACU; Sukhendra Kumar Sarkar, Treasurer, BRACU; Dr. Rebecca Manring, Secretary of AIBS and Sudipta Roy, AIBS Resident Fellow were present in the signing ceremony.

The American Institute of Bangladesh Studies (AIBS) is an association of institutions of higher learning in the United States aimed at promoting scholarly understanding between Bangladesh and United States. AIBS is a member of the Council for American Overseas Research Centers (CAORC) and affiliated with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Bangladesh. Currently, AIBS has 20 member higher education institutions in the United States and 14 partner universities in Bangladesh.
